

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SOUTHAMPTON — The "Italia" crept up Southampton Water at sunset, and now we are alongside the dock, waiting to disembark. They won't let us off until tomorrow morning.

The steep shores of Cornwall appeared in the distance this morning. We moved along the coasts of Cornwall, Devon and Dorset all day, very slowly, in bright sunshine on a calm sea.

By now there were all kinds of vessels around: Coastal tankers, small passenger ships, sailing yachts.

Then people crowded to the starboard side to observe the pale cliffs of the Isle of Wight which loomed up dramatically in the sun, tapering to those white pillars, like exclamation marks in the sea, which are called the Needles. Off the Needles light we picked up a pilot to take us the inner way through the Solent to Southampton.

The cliffs aroused several cries of wonder and joy, particularly from Americans. But one American amateur photographer cursed when he was informed that the cliffs were on the Isle of Wight.

"I used up the last of my film on it, and it wasn't even the mainland," he said with disgust.

Our friend Ron was at the rail looking nostalgically at the green countryside, the patchwork of fields and the occasional red-brick coastal towns. "The Isle of Wight is a miniature England—it has a sample of every kind of terrain in it," he said.

He pointed out one of a row of houses on a cliff as the place where he had spent some boyhood summers. These houses were movable. They had to be pulled back as portions of the cliffs crumbled away at intervals.

That cluster of buildings was Cowes, the famous yachting centre. Our ship turned sharply away from the island and down the lane of buoys that marked the channel to Southampton.

An Ontario lady, who should have known better, asked whether you could see Ireland and the Isle of Man from here—rather like asking whether you could see Prince Rupert and Calgary from Vancouver.

Numerous tankers were waiting to load and unload at the great oil refinery whose towers rose to port of us. We passed by an abandoned seaplane base, where two derelict flying boats still stood on shore.

Three tugs, one of them a coal-burner belching black smoke, eased us through the narrowing waters, past a forest of cranes to our berth. The skyline of the docks was black and ragged against the red setting sun. Passengers eager to see England (many of them for the first time) crowded the fore-part of the ship, many tourist passengers breaking through into first class quarters.

My boys were entranced by the tugs, particularly the coal-burner. Seeing "fussy tugboats" (a phrase from a child's book about ships) is the highlight of the journey for young Michael.

We had one or two farewell beers, and then went to bed in our cabin for the last time, ready to sleep well in spite of the glow of lights and the clatter of unloading cargo.

Suction In Pool Deadly

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—A freak accident has claimed the life of a 12-year-old boy in a public swimming pool.

Authorities said the victim, Murray Lee Rosenfeld, apparently sat on an outlet pipe grating in about four feet of water and then was held fast by the suction of water being drawn from the pool in a continuous circulation process.

The boy finally was brought to the surface by a pool guard who tied a rope around him and pulled him free of the suction.

Artificial respiration failed to revive the young victim.

Watch the Fires! Saanich Warned

The people of Saanich have a responsibility to take every precaution against fire, Saanich's Fire Chief Joseph Law said last night.

The Saanich brigade answered two calls yesterday to grass fires within 30 minutes of each other.

"Only the burning of rubbish in approved incinerators is permitted," he said. "This last couple of days have been pretty dry and if it keeps up it could overtake us."

Earlier in the day, Victoria fire brigade spent 34 minutes fighting a small grass fire at 422 Johns, and a small roof fire, at 655 Toronto. Colwood fire brigade extinguished a small grass fire on Cotlow Road.

Living at the corner of Bay and Cook Streets is like living on the Indianapolis Speedway a disgruntled citizen wrote to Victoria police commission yesterday, and Mayor Percy Scurren agreed with him. Protest was made by R. D. I. Lyall, 2500 Blackwood.

power of commercial vehicles. The chief promised an immediate crackdown.

First meeting of a special Greater Victoria committee to study and take action on maintenance of ferry connection with Vancouver was called yesterday for Monday afternoon. Establishment of the committee was approved Wednesday by the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee.

To serve with him on the committee, Mayor Percy Scurren has named Coun. Fred Hawes of Oak Bay, Coun. Joseph Casey of Saanich and Coun. G. K. Sammon of Esquimalt.

Bids for construction of the $20,000 "Ker addition" to Victoria Art Gallery were received Wednesday but gallery officials have declined to disclose the figures.

Gallery curator Colin Graham said last night the figures may not be released until Tuesday, but gallery president, Anthony Emery, stated earlier he might release them today.

The gallery's executive board is scheduled to study the tenders today and a full meeting of directors is planned for Monday.

The glass-fronted addition is a donation by R. H. B. Ker, Gordon Head, in commemoration of his family's 100 years in Victoria.

Young Bandit

Manhunt Spreads Up-Island

The search for a youthful bandit who robbed a Victoria grocery store at gunpoint Wednesday morning spread up-island yesterday as police obtained a new description of the robber.

The youth is now described as between five feet, two inches, and five feet, six inches tall, 15 or 16 years old, thin with a long, thin face, very pale complexion, and wearing a black nylon or silk jacket.

The RCMP and outside police forces have been brought into the search as city police believe the youth might have driven up-island after the robbery.

The boy, brandished a rusty automatic pistol of either .32 or .38 calibre when he robbed Mrs. Dorothy King of $20 from the till of the Gordon Head Produce Co., 1126 Blanshard.

Famed Bullfighter Gored Condition Called 'Grave'

VALENCIA, Spain — Internationally-famed Spanish bullfighter Luis Miguel Dominguin was caught and seriously gored during a bullfight here. First reports from the rig infirmary said doctors had classified his condition as "grave."

Dominguin, considered by many to be the world's best bullfighter, was caught and thrown while fighting his third bull of the day in a "mano a mano" (hand-to-hand) fight with his brother-in-law and rival, Antonio Ordonez.

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — British television star Sabrina, of the 42-inch bust has accepted an American offer to star in an all-girl show at Las Vegas in November.

FORT LEE, N.J. — Actor Allen Jenkins remembered all his lines last night, after staying up a night and a day to learn them. Night before last, after fumbling several times, Jenkins told the startled audience: "I am not up to my lines." The play went on — with Jenkins reading from the script.

THE HAGUE — Dutch Defence Minister Sidney J. Van den Bergh resigned following reports he had been cited in a divorce case in California. Frederik Lek, 50, heir to a perfume fortune, alleged that his 36-year-old wife, Helga, had accepted from him a $100,000 trust fund, $100,000 in jewelry, a sports car and a mink coat.

BEVERLY HILLS — Song-writer Herman Ruby, 68, died of heart disease here. His best known songs included "I'll Always Be in Love With You" and "Cecilia."

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Diefenbaker is finally getting a holiday—just a short one. He plans to head for his home town of Prince Albert, Sask., early next week for three days.

FREIBURG, Germany — Alfred Strobel, a news photographer, has brought assault and battery charges against two sabre-carrying bodyguards of King Saud of Saudi Arabia who struck him and took his camera away while he was photographing the king.

Smuggling's Popular Sport —So Is Bagging Smugglers

By TERRY HAMMOND

Trying to beat the customs department is more often a "popular outdoor sport" than a deliberately criminal act, according to a senior Canadian customs man with 47 years' experience.

Gerald Yardley, who retired as collector of customs and excise here Aug. 11, says most travellers sooner or later try to smuggle something across a border "more in the spirit of good clean fun" than in an attempt to defraud.

SAME SPIRIT

And with twinkling eyes Mr. Yardley manages to give the impression that it is in the same spirit of good clean fun that he and his men catch a high percentage of the ones who try.

But it is with a different spirit entirely that he approaches the business of smuggling narcotics.

BIG SEIZURES

In his 28 years in Victoria, first as inspector of customs for the Pacific and Yukon, and later as collector, he has terminated the seizure of tens of thousands of dollars worth of opium.

One of his biggest hauls was made in the mid-30s from a Chinese immigrant who disembarked here from the Ss Tyndarius with an innocent-looking trunk and a few other belongings, including a heavy knife-sharpening stone, a porcelain Buddha and a wooden tub.

These were modest belongings indeed—that is until they yielded close to $17,000 worth of the stuff opium dreams are made of.

Then there was the Duncan man who had two pairs of shoes sent to him from India.

"You get pretty suspicious in this business and I happened to be standing near one of our men as he opened this parcel.

"I picked up a desk spike and jabbed it into the sole just above the heel. It went right through and came out covered with opium.

"We had a shoemaker fix it up and we sent it on its way, keeping a careful watch over it in Duncan. After six days a man came to claim it and we closed in."

Then there was the respected Chinese merchant a few years back who, with his family, got off a plane at Patricia Bay after a trip to the Orient.

Register, Open Your Books U.S. Communists Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled yesterday that the Communist party must register with the government under the 1950 Subversive Activities Law. The justice department has been trying to win the case for about nine years.

The opinion was written by Chief Judge E. Barrett Prettyman. He was joined by Circuit Judge John A. Danaher.

Circuit Judge David L. Bazelon dissented and urged sending the case back to the subversive activities control board for a fourth round of hearings.

The new ruling will probably be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court by the Communist party.

THREE TIMES
On three occasions, the subversive activities control board has ruled the U.S. Communist party is under the domination of Moscow.

The law requires "Communist-action" organizations to register, open their books and label their propaganda.

The act was the first legislation aimed at the Communist party as an organization, rather than at individual members.

Judge Prettyman said, the "facts beyond dispute" are: "There is a Communist party in Europe, based upon Marxism-Leninism, and in power in Soviet Russia; that our present petitioner was for years a member of the Communist international, and its separation from that organization was not accompanied by a repudiation, either of objectives or of methods. . . . Besides the registration requirements, the law provides that party members can not obtain passports or work in government or defence jobs. If the party fails to register its entire membership, non-registered members would be subject to a $10,000 fine or five years in jail, or both, for every day of non-compliance.

A Very Sharp Lesson

SITTING as a plenary judge in the Supreme Court of British Columbia, Mr. Justice Manson yesterday decided an issue which arose during injunction proceedings before him but which turned exclusively on asserted disobedience to a given order of that court. Personal fines of $3,000 each on three mainland union leaders, and a fine of $10,000 on the local of the union concerned constitute a very sharp reminder that the law has to be obeyed. Hard as the penalty will fall on some individuals, the presiding judge had full discretion to decide what the punishment should be for contempt of a formal order given by himself, in the matter of the safety of the uncompleted Second Narrows Bridge.

The difficulty may be to make those who are at the moment embroiled in a labor-industrial dispute understand that the very heavy fines and the punishment of conviction for contempt of court have nothing to do with the nature of the labor dispute itself. The penalties, as Mr. Justice Manson made clear, were handed out for disobedience of an order of the court. All of the law and the statutes support the wide discretion given to a judge in such circumstances. The ruling may be appealed, as are many rulings in the courts, but in the circumstances only a judge whose order was reputedly not complied with could exercise the full authority given to him in the conduct of his court.

The case has been an unusual one in B.C. court annals. A direct issue of contempt of court has often enough arisen through the action of one or other parties to a dispute; or, as sometimes is the case, through the manner of reporting of such hearings in the press. A retraction and apology by an offender often settles such an incident. In the present instance, however, there was a direct order of the court requiring the safety securing of a bridge in the early stages of its erection. If that order were not obeyed there would at once arise a serious challenge to the authority of the law itself. Therein rests the "contempt" feature of the unusual action.

It need scarcely be said that if one order of a court could be broken with impunity, no court order could be executed. The statute law of the land—made in parliament and legislature—stands in the name of the Crown for all of the people. It can be defied successfully by no one; high or low, rich or poor, in Canada. Were that otherwise, the law would be meaningless and democracy would give way to anarchy.

The Army Doesn't Want Them

A VISITING psychology professor from Oxford has been telling students at UBC how he would handle juvenile delinquents. His cure for at least one type of delinquent, he says, would be to put them in the army. He mustn't know much about military life today.

Perhaps he is thinking of armies of Wellington's time; composed as that general ungratefully said of "the scum of the earth," albeit they won his battles for him. Those were the days of iron if not brutal discipline, necessary perhaps in the social climate of that era. As a social lecturer the Oxonian should know that today is a different world, however.

The modern army is one that demands a respectable degree of intelligence and a willing response to service and authority. It is not an escape but a career. Discipline there is and fine men it makes, but it is discipline based on understanding and military pride. The old barrack-room harshness has no place, if only because there is no need for it. Soldiers of today are men of good calibre.

The army is therefore no place for delinquents. It is not a rehabilitative centre for social misfits. Reformation of that kind is for other agencies, although there is far too ready a belief that delinquents should be palmed off on the army just to save other people trouble. Actually this kind of suggestion has the elements of depreciation about it. It indicates also that those who favor a seemingly easy way out of social difficulties have no proper idea of the functions and responsibilities of the armed forces.

The Oxford psychologist says he is taking his ideas back to England and hopes there to carry them out. One doubts if he will be any more successful there than he would be here. But if by his remarks he has dropped any seeds in Canada they should be stamped on. The army needs recruits, but it does not favor delinquents or pressed men.

Packaged Progress

MODERN ingenuity and merchandising have achieved a "cigaret" which will contain no tobacco, to be vended shortly south of the international border. It will come in standard cigarette packs, have a filter tip and all the appearance of a normal cigarette, and be free from excise tax. As it will also be free of tobacco in any form whatever, one wonders if this, after all, is what smokers have been looking for.

One can recall the corn silk adventures of other days and many attempts to substitute other foliage, dried or undried, for the tobacco which adults kept safely out of bounds. Some of these adolescent attempts were ambitious. They extended, in instances, to cabbage leaves, the foliage of bay trees, most of the wild grasses of the fields and, in at least one case we know of, to the palmaceous leaves of the skunk cabbage. They all had the same defect, they were not tobacco, and no amount of make-believe could cure that.

As for the present ambitious experiment in merchandising, while confirmed smokers may not flock to the tobacco-less "cigaret," novices and neophytes may well do so. It would be something, no doubt, to have the appearance of smoking without doing so in fact. Also the feeling that the tax gatherer was doing the burning up might on occasion be distinctly welcome.

In the end, however, this ambitious try to cure the world of its smoking habits is not too likely to endure. What Sir Walter Raleigh is credited with starting centuries ago has become a habit which has gripped a large part of the human race firmly. What the average smoker—and he has already turned back many threats to his life, his mind, his pocketbook and his temper as negligible—looks for in a cigarette is a good tobacco he can enjoy smoking. To offer him a separation treatment, abstention thinly disguised, or the ersatz product of some other plant in this Garden of Eden—even with a tax benefit thrown in—is to give him a packaged runaround.

Interpreting the News

Bilingual Quebec Cited

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW speculation of the possibility of Quebec City being chosen as the site for a summit conference may be more than mere talk.

Quebec City was mentioned in previous U.S. speculation along with Geneva and San Francisco. But then talk about Quebec died down and much of the gossip centred on San Francisco.

Now comes a new dispatch from Vice-President Richard Nixon's press corps while he is still on his Russian tour, quoting his advisers as saying the capital of Canada's bilingual province is being mentioned as a possible summit locale if and when one is agreed upon.

The significance of the latest speculation is that it came immediately after Mr. Nixon's confidential talks with Premier Khrushchev. Undoubtedly, in dealing with the world's problems, they must have touched on the prospects of a summit meeting. And, if there was any serious talk about the summit, then some mention of a possible site might have been made.

At least that kind of inference might be drawn if there is any validity at all to suggestions that the two men talked bluntly and openly to each other.

Khrushchev has been pushing for a summit for a long time.

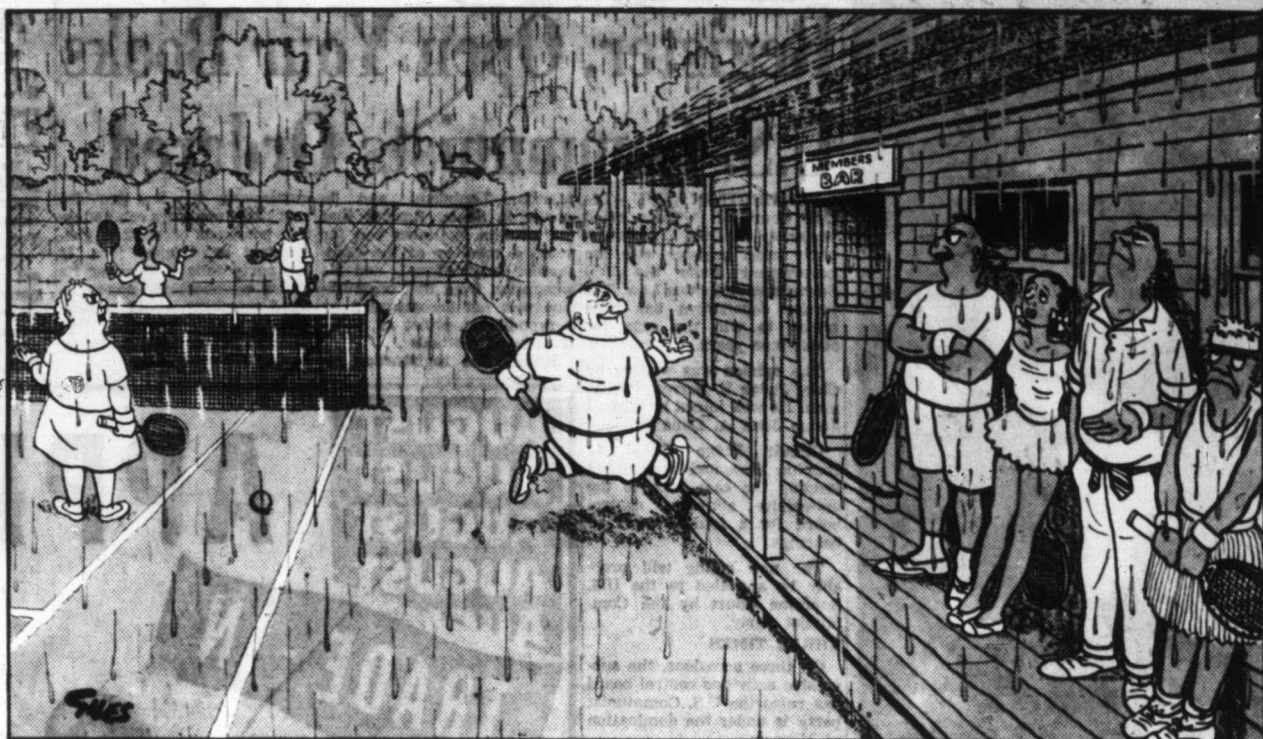

He got fairly strong support for such talks with Britain. But President Eisenhower recently suggested a summit conference appeared remote because of the lack of progress at Geneva.

That was before Nixon's trip to Moscow. Khrushchev has the power to switch things a bit at Geneva by citing on Russia's Berlin stand. He might just do this if he wants a summit meeting badly enough.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has offered to play host and has suggested Quebec as a locale.

"Tennis is certainly keeping YOU fit."

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I TOLD the other day about Mary Stuart being in Vancouver and I see that the critics of the play bearing her name are displeased with the queens on view, or rather the actresses essaying to typify them. The stage Mary is described as "slouching, whining," and her rival, the stage Elizabeth Tudor, as "colorless." Whatever else these two historic figures were Elizabeth never lacked color—she gave it to a whole era—and Mary never whined, even during her last days, the time element of the Schiller play.

A note from Vancouver mentions that of all the artists in this festival production only the parts of the two queens are played by non-Canadians. Would this have anything to do with the discrepancy?

The fascination foreign performers have for Canadian producers of all kinds is obvious and strange. Big-name stars of this or that are invited to open Canadian national exhibitions, stampedes, act in festivals and take precedence in events of various nature. One would think there were no celebrities at all in our own land, or competent artists able to perform adequately and well.

I remember during the war when Jack Benny was imported to Victoria among other places, to tell Victorians to buy Canadian war bonds, a circumstance I thought most invidious, to put it at its mildest. I even felt something was amiss when bond posters bore the Churchill portrait instead of that of the reigning Canadian prime minister, uninspiring though the latter was compared to the man who made you feel taller each time you heard him on the air.

There seems to be a rampant Canadian inferiority complex about; and never was there less need of self-depreciation than today.

I disclosed one of my vicarious sports interest recently, under the impression that the New York Yankees were ready to stop fooling and assume a serious aspect. But alas they continue to go the wrong way—downwards. And since nothing succeeds like success and non-success in professional sports means the headman's axe for the manager, the critics are calling for Mr. Stengel's head on the block. Have they no heart at all? The inimitable Casey has won nine pennants out of the last ten; must be kept on winning without a break? Can't the poor man be allowed a single year off form?

I haven't heard the verbal duel on television but news reports suggest that Richard Nixon didn't bite the dust when he met head on with busterous Nikita Khrushchev. Their hot-word argument in public would make the diplomats blanch but probably it was a welcome exchange. Khrushchev is no respecter of the striped-pantish approach and if he can bluster and bully it does the West no harm to produce an opponent who can deal with him in kind. The soft answer that turneth away wrath has much to commend it, but only in certain circumstances.

Khrushchev has never been to the West, actually knows nothing at first-hand of its people or places. It should do him good to learn that his like in words and manners can be matched by the West if need be. Respect often comes when men realize their opponents can play them at their own game.

In his own country Nixon will be a hero for not knuckling down to the truculent Soviet leader. A nation always likes when its man can hold his own in competition, especially when he is the flag-bearer of his country.

Coo's a' the Same

Young Nation in a Hurry

From an address by Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, July 28, 1959.

IN June of 1914, the good ship Grampian docked in Quebec Harbor with the Gordon family on its passenger list; and in no time, we were embarked on an immigrants' special train heading for the City of Toronto.

For many months, I had heard discussions of the great venture. My mother had held stoutly in favor of it from the beginning, but what I didn't know, until much later, was that she had been told dire stories of the hardships that would face settlers in Canada—a country of extremes and vast distances, where Red Indians, buffaloes, wolves, and sundry wild animals lay in wait for the unwary; where long and dismal winters were succeeded by summers of insufferable heat, during which mosquitoes and flies of every description combined to feast upon the unacclimatized.

As our train pulled out of the environs of Quebec City and gradually began to roll through the countryside, I was startled to observe tears running down my mother's cheeks as she peered out of the window at the passing scene.

As a sturdy young man of some thirteen years, I simply could not understand what was happening, since I verily believe it was the first time I had ever known my mother to shed tears.

But just as my world was about to fall apart, and when I too might have yielded to the infection of homesickness, my mother looked out more carefully at a passing farm, and with a smile breaking through her tears, turned to our group, and said in a tone of complete relief, "A weel,—the coos are a' the same."

The Gordon family had its full share of the vicissitudes and adjustments that await the immigrant. The First World War caught us in the early months of our arrival, and exacted from our family group a full measure of its grim toll of suffering and death. For some time, our economic circumstances seldom gave us twenty-four hours freedom from sharing Mother Hubbard's well-known concern about her cupboard. But, while the going was strenuous on occasion, and even later in my life when other lands looked greener, the assurance that in Canada "the coos are a' the same" never failed to restore my perspective.

So it is that in speaking to you as a Canadian, I am, of course, reporting as one of the family. Consequently, you will expect me to tell you if we have done well, and encourage me to describe the developing success story of Canada.

It has been my good fortune to witness personally the development of much of this story. Hence, that part of my business experience in banking and in government service, in war and in peace, gave me a feeling for, and a perspective on, Canadian history that has been sharpened over the last decade of my experience in the railway industry.

For the fact is that the history of Canada—and by history I mean up to and including the present day—must be written around the growth of its transportation services.

The first railroads fought the early settlers' most formidable enemy, which was isolation. Later railway building made Confederation itself possible, and today, Canada's position as fourth among the trading nations of the world (and, according to most recent figures) first per capita, is in large measure attributable to the fact that the country's railroads, extending over a network of 60,000 miles, carry the products of farms, mines, forests, fisheries and factories over vast distances at a level of freight rates that is among the lowest in the world.

The railways, once the only link among the provinces, are now but part of the enormous transportation complex, serving a quickly expanding and diversified economy.

But the railways are still the chief transportation instrument in national development—the pioneer. Since the Second World War we have been busy tapping the mineral riches of what was once thought of as our barren North, bringing out uranium, copper, silver, aluminum, cobalt and many other metals. We are still pushing back frontiers.

This, then, is a great age for Canada and Canadians. While inevitably there have been, and may be, ups and downs, the nation on the whole is prospering, and everywhere there are striking forerunners of future growth and development. A young nation-in-a-hurry is stepping up the pace in the second half of this century, hell-bent on bearing out an earlier prophecy that the 20th century would belong to Canada.

Modern Medicine

Benefactions to Mankind

By LORD MORAN

Consulting physician to St. Mary's Hospital, London, president of the Royal College of Physicians, London, from 1941 to 1958.

WHEN I was a medical student about 50 years ago, clerking to a physician in a medical ward was unpopular; students felt that physicians could do very little for their patients except to relieve their pain and ensure that they slept.

All this is now completely changed, and a medical ward is a cheerful place where nearly all the patients are going to get well soon, just as they do in a surgical ward. The discovery of antibiotics, by providing a specific cure for most acute infections, is responsible for this dramatic change.

The discovery of penicillin by the late Sir Alexander Fleming, working at St. Mary's Hospital in London, provided the world with an extraordinarily effective means of controlling the most severe infections with pyogenic bacteria.

Malaria, until recently, caused more deaths and chronic ill-health in the world than any other single disease. The discovery by Sir Ronald Ross, a Scotsman, that the malarial parasite is carried by mosquitoes began the successful crusade against the malarial parasite.

Unfortunately the striking advances which have been made in combating the acute infections have not been associated with equal progress in delaying arterial disease in old people. Nevertheless, recent years have seen a definite advance in this field. It was not until Professor Paton and Dr. Zainis, working at the National Institute for Medical Research in London, showed that hexamethonium, by paralyzing the autonomic nervous system, could effectively control arterial pressure, that real progress was made.

In North America and Northern Europe, degenerative arterial disease, including coronary artery disease, has become a major cause of death, often among men in the prime of life. An investigation of the causation of coronary thrombosis is therefore of the first importance. Dr. Fullerton of Aberdeen found that after a fatty meal there was a significant reduction in the time taken for blood clotting. Later, another British worker showed that men with sedentary occupations were more likely to develop coronary artery disease than those who had to take a good deal of exercise.

The world can see for itself that the discovery of penicillin was a benefaction to mankind. It is more difficult to explain that most dramatic discoveries are made possible only by the development of a new technique. Without attempting to describe partition-chromatography let me say this: In order to understand many disease processes, it is necessary to be able to study extremely tiny chemical changes taking place in the cells and fluids of the body; chromatography is a new method of analysis, the possibilities of which are so revolutionary that it has been said that the old method could only be likened to the new if one thought of travel before the introduction of steam, and since,

Again the full understanding of the structure of the protein molecule will have far reaching results. Let me give a single example. If you take a page in a book, the words are composed of the 26 letters of the alphabet. But it is the sequence in which these letters are put down which determines whether the words make a sonnet by Shakespeare or just journalism.

In like manner, a protein molecule may be made up of 500 different amino-acids. If we call them bricks, then if one brick gets out of place a disease may develop. The matter of blood, can become a form of anaemia common in the Mediterranean countries, by the displacement of a single "brick."

The National Health Service has decentralized British specialists so that they are scattered more evenly over the country, where formerly they were concentrated in the big cities. This has made it possible to upgrade hospitals in Britain by giving them a first-class staff, so that the whole population has profited by all these new advances in medicine.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN the drug store, an elderly lady was holding up traffic while detailing all her symptoms to the man behind the counter. When there were seven or eight of us lined up waiting, the druggist finally sold the lady a bottle of something and as politely as possible brought the consultation to an end.

Being the last, I lingered while the druggist sank back against the wall and lit a cigarette.

"You must get awfully tired," I said, "of people coming in and treating you as a medical consultant."

"It has its advantages," said the druggist. "How else would I unload a lot of the stuff I am stuck with? You have no idea how many thousands of articles we have to carry in stock. Every once in a while, either through an intensive advertising campaign or else by word of mouth, a certain cure-all becomes all the rage, and we have to stock up with it. Then the demand dies off as suddenly as it began. What am I to do with what I've got on the shelf?"

"Isn't that a rather cynical attitude?" I protested.

"No, it's the same in every business and profession," said the druggist. "Try your best to have a favorable balance at the end of each day, each month, and each year."

Hoot Mon!

I am inclined to take exception to certain statements in the article "Thumbs named to honor Barrie" by Ginie Beardsley in Sunday's Islander.

It is too bad she does not get her facts straight before she starts writing her articles.

In the first paragraph she states "It's farther from the ugliness and poverty of a Scottish mill town of the '90's ...," etc., etc.

She does not even know the spelling of the name of the town she has insulted. First of all I am a Scot, born and bred in KIRRIEMUIR, also my father, grandfather and great-grandfather before me and never before, to my knowledge, has anyone had the audacity to call one of the most picturesque towns anywhere (and I have been almost all over the world, including Canada) ugly and certainly never has it known poverty.

It has two small jute mills and during the time of the depression, when large mills and factories were closed or on short time, the Gairie Mill and Wilkie's were able to continue, because they could handle small orders that the bigger mills would not start their machinery for.

If Gordon Head ever begins to look half as beautiful as Kirriemuir, in Angus, Scotland, the tourist board will not require to do any further advertising, so please tell your "author" to read up on Kirriemuir, which is four miles from Glamis, the birthplace of Princess Margaret and the home of our Queen Mother.

Paid 13 Cents an Hour

I am submitting this observation so that anyone who is considering berry picking in the Saanich farm district will be informed as to how much money they can expect to make or rather how little.

My daughter, who is 16 and unable to find summer employment, applied for loganberry picking at the National Farm Labor Service and was told to report to a farm the following Monday morning. She reported as directed and after working all day long in the hot sun, was paid the grand sum of $1.80 for picking 60 pounds of loganberries at the prevailing rate is $0.03 per pound.

Subtract 50 cents bus fare from this and you are left with $1.30. Take a further $28 bus fare for going down town to register and you are left with $1.04. Divide this by eight hours and you have $0.13 per hour, which is of course a ridiculous wage to expect anyone to be fool enough to come back again for.

This therefore is the main reason that berries are rotting on the vines of Saanich.

Labor Strife

It seems that by all appearances we are in for a long strike with no immediate solution.

All this strife we are facing today, after all it is man-made, and accordingly if there is a solution, it would be man-made. It was announced that the members of the opposition had asked the government for an immediate session of the legislature and as we all know, the government declined. So naturally, people will immediately blame the government for not interfering.

The B.C. Federation of Labor is convening in Vancouver Aug. 1, in an endeavor to find a solution to all this strife. Most of you have heard a great deal about Bill 43. I don't know too much about it, but may I ask a question? If we did not have Bill 43, would we have all these strikes that are crippling B.C.?

May I offer a humble suggestion? Let us for a moment put aside power and politics and use common sense. There are some smart men among the politicians, union leaders and management. As we all know, there is talk of a summit conference between East and West. Why not something similar between labor, management and the government, or has it been tried?

Out of such a conference would come, let us say, a Bill of Rights which would be agreeable to all sides. Does that sound like a good idea?

CLYDE TEASDALE.

Bogus Bills Made in East

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP said here that counterfeit $10 bills that have turned up recently on the West Coast were printed in Montreal last year.

Officers said hundreds of the bogus bills are still in circulation despite the seizure of 250 of them here and the arrest of three men. Police estimate they were bought from the Montreal manufacturer for about $3 each.

The phony bills have turned up frequently at beer parlors and cafes here.

B.C. Leads—in Nudism

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nudist movement is growing steadily in the United States and Canada in spite of the competition of the Bikini bathing suit and skimpy street wear.

clubs claim 10,000 members in North America—up from a low of less than 5,000 10 years ago. British Columbia seems to have the most nudists in Canada, but they're present and practising in all the 10 provinces.

There probably are more folks who spend their summer weekends and vacations naked in the United States today than at any time since the first nudist association was created a little over a quarter of a century ago by physical culture enthusiast Edmund Burke and two Protestant ministers, Ilsey Boone and Henry Huntington.

The growth of nudism scandalizes most church folk and gets a fishy eye from the medical profession. Most doctors, while agreeing that sunshine is good for you, contend civilized man just has lived indoors and worn clothes too many centuries now to be able safely to start running around naked again.

Nudists insist that's bunk. "The ancient Greeks went nude a lot of the time and from all accounts they had fine physiques—so 'did the early Romans and the Japanese even today have no prejudice against nudity," nudists claim.

Except for being fenced in and the taboo against drinking, life in a nudist camp is about like being in any other vacation camp.

Lose Ground At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials lost ground Thursday but the rest of the stock market was mixed to higher in slower trading.

The industrial index was off nearly three-quarters of a point after nudging higher in early trading. Base metals and western oils both added a half point to their indices while golds managed to gain a quarter of a point.

Trading in the first hour was the heaviest in six weeks as speculative buying continued from Wednesday but later in the session the pace slowed down and the final volume was 2,678,000 shares compared with Wednesday's 3,247,000.

Index changes: Industrials off .69 to 552.83; golds up .24 to 89.78; base metals up .54 to 119.11; western oils up .55 to 119.11.

New York Unsettled

NEW YORK (AP) — Aircraft issue, skipped higher as stock market prices milled unevenly Thursday.

Rubbers, coppers and tobaccos generally boomed higher. Motors, chemicals, utilities and electronics were mixed.

Oils suffered a relapse after bounding ahead sharply early this week. Steels, aluminum and drugs also retreated.

Turnover slackened to 3,240,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 30 cents from Wednesday's record high to $234.70.

Among the Canadians on the New York Exchange, Canadian Pacific lost 1/2, Aluminum Ltd. International Nickel and Walker Godehard's each. McIntyre Porcupine gained 1/2, Distillers Seagrams, Dome Mines and Hudson Bay Mining 1/2 each.

Montreal Irregular

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were irregular with changes still generally in a fractional range at the close of moderate trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Thursday.

Western oils were firm as Pacific Petroleum improved 1/2 to 14 1/2.

Industrial volume was 96,000 shares, mines and oils, 417,100. Of 214 issues traded, 65 advanced, 65 declined and 84 were unchanged. Ten new issues were recorded and six new lows. The closing averages show banks off 0.12 at 153.8, utilities off 0.3 at 153.8, industrials up 0.1 at 330.2, combined unchanged 271.4, papers up 1.1 and golds unchanged at 90.47.

London Quiet

LONDON (Reuters) — The London stock market was generally quiet and irregular yesterday but the undertone remained firm.

Oil shares were firm. Glit-ged securities were quiet and slightly easier but in the foreign bond market Greek issues advanced. Gains predominated in dollar stocks.

Industrial equities showed a number of useful gains but the general trend was irregular. Steel shares were generally better.

Ford Motors eased on profit-taking. Gold shares were firmer but interest in base metals shares remained on a limited scale.

Interest Climbs to Record High

Bank Canada Rate Jumps

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada interest rate, rising for the fourth week in a row, reached a record 5.72 per cent from 5.66 last week, the central bank reported yesterday.

The bank rate, which is geared to the average yield on weekly sales tenders of government treasury bills, now has risen by .42 per cent from 5.26 on July 2. The previous high was set last week. The record low was 1.12 last Aug. 2.

MINIMUM CHARGED

The rate is set at one-quarter of one per cent above the average yield of 91-day treasury bills which this week was 5.47 per cent compared with 5.41 a week ago. The bank rate is the minimum charged by the central bank on the infrequent loans it makes to chartered and savings banks.

Average price paid for the new issue of $135,000,000 worth of 91-day treasury bills, maturing Oct. 30, was $98.655 compared with $98.668 last week.

May Be Worst in History

U.S. Wheat Glut Feared

By KARL RIEDEMANN

A "grave crisis" in wheat. That's the way U.S. Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson described the new government estimates that the U.S. will fall behind in its exports this year.

It will leave the U.S. with its biggest wheat surplus in history in 1960.

The U.S. exports are estimated to drop to 425 million bushels in the marketing year beginning July 1 compared with 445 million in the previous year.

Carryover on government stocks at July 1 was 1,277 million bushels from 881 million at the same time last year.

Stocks on farms doubled to 115 million bushels. This year's crop is estimated at 1,155 million bushels.

The U.S. prediction is based on surveys indicating that many of the world's importers are showing prospects of more favorable crops of their own. Canadian exports which have been moving slower this year, will also be affected.

The forecast may come as a shock to some people. It is a final rude awakening to the dream of the U.S. and Canada as the bread basket of the world, an awakening which has been predicted by economists for years.

Use of Newsprint Higher in 1960

WASHINGTON (UPI) — World consumption of newsprint in 1960 should reach 15,200,000 tons, 10 per cent above the 1958 level, the department of commerce said yesterday in a reappraisal of earlier forecasts.

The report was submitted to the house commerce committee.

Canada will have the production facilities to provide 44 per cent of the estimated 1960 demand, or 7,600,000 tons, the experts said.

The report covers the needs and production of 65 countries, including the Communist bloc, which normally consumes 99 per cent of the world's newsprint.

The United States is expected to consume 7,300,000 tons next year.

GM Profit

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corp., biggest of the world's automakers, has reported a net profit of $590,285,641 for the first six months of 1959.

This was a gain of 77 per cent over the $333,514,249 earned in the first half of 1958.

Sales of Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac cars and other GM products rose to $6,511,699,791 from $5,121,261,436 a year ago.

GM's profit lifted total earnings of U.S. auto manufacturers for the first six months of 1959 to nearly $1,000,000,000.

Britain Wants Fare Cut

LONDON (NANA) — Will you be able to fly across the Atlantic one day soon for $120? That is one of the questions being argued by British aviation chiefs.

Everyone in the British aviation industry wants to reduce fares on world routes. But the question is, which fares and by how much?

An influential group of leaders of the aviation industry, formed into a body called the Air League of the British Empire, is making the most drastic call for fare cuts. It says fares on many international routes could be cut by half—including the Atlantic route.

NOT POSSIBLE

But officials of some of the British and American companies operating the Atlantic route say this is absurd, that no such cut is possible in the immediate future.

The major British airlines say they are going to press for reductions in fares at the September meeting in Honolulu of the world price-fixing body, the International Air Transport Association.

But they will ask for cuts only on the Far East and African routes. It is believed that they want to extend the idea of cheap economic flights, introduced on the Atlantic run last year, to these areas. They hope other IATA members will support them.

MAY CUT FARES

Harold Watkinson, British minister of transport and civil aviation, warned earlier this month that if IATA resists fare cuts, British airlines might reduce fares on the routes they dominate.

The Air League of the British Empire says it wants to see fares reduced until the airplane is the mode of travel of the common man. This has been achieved, they say, in the United States, where plane fares are cheaper than anywhere else, though wages and costs are higher.

Ground Troops To Get Defence Against Planes

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP) — A rocket designed to give a foot soldier some defence against a strafing plane is being developed, the army's weapons research staff here says.

Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau told about the rocket at a press conference at the army proving ground here.

The "Red Eye" uses the same principle as the "Side-winder," an air-to-air missile which is attracted to the heat of an engine.

The ground-to-air weapon is fired by hand from a bazooka-like launcher and is effective up to one mile, Gen. Trudeau said. He did not disclose how close the army is to putting it in the hands of troops.

Quadra Island Fire Rages, Forest Closure Pondered

Forestry officials said yesterday the fire hazard in British Columbia forests is rising sharply again. With more hot, dry weather forecast, a forestry official said the possibility of a woods closing is being considered. Nothing would be done for a few days, he said, "but we can't see beyond that."

Twenty-two fires were burning yesterday in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island and part of the mainland.

A 20-acre blaze on North Quadra Island was reported out of control. Two water-bombing B.C. Airlines planes were used to keep one end of the blaze in check, but wind whipped the flames eastward through scrubby timber and over inaccessible rocky ledges at the other end. Twenty men were fighting the blaze at Deep Water Bay.

The area can only be reached by plane or boat.

A firebug has added to the worries and woes of the B.C. Forest Service. Nine out of the 10 new fires reported yesterday in the Alexis Creek area of the Kamloops forest district, an official said, were believed to have been deliberately set.

Elsewhere in the province, lightning and human carelessness were keeping the service on the run, with the hazard in the southern part of the province described as high.

Veteran Marks 30-Year Fight With Big Cats

NANAIMO—Cougar hunter Jim Dewar, of Nanaimo, celebrates his 30th anniversary of his first cougar kill, today.

If there's a trouble call in he may observe the occasion by going out and polishing off another of the big cats with which he and his hounds have been doing battle for three decades.

SEVERAL HUNDRED
Though he and hunters he has taken out on cougar hunts have probably killed several hundred of the big cats, he says he has no actual count of the quarry tracked down and finished in the long years of hunting on Vancouver Island and the mainland.

For many years he hunted on his own or took out shoot-ers anxious to bag a cougar. Of late years he has been official predator hunter for the provincial government. When reports come in of cougar "invading" settlements, killing pets and endangering children, he and his blueticks go into high gear.

He once fought a cougar with his bare hands when it got hold of Blue and was about to maul her. He grabbed the cougar by the neck and freed the hound.

"Since I took up hunting cougars 30 years ago, six of my dogs have been mauled to death by the cats," he recalls with regret.

Ladysmith Paid Off —And Burned Bonds

LADYSMITH—Burning of bonds at Kelowna is not the first time that there has been a similar celebration of payment of public debt. The City of Ladysmith set fire to its matured bonds on the afternoon of September 26, 1939, while ratepayers and visitors stood about and applauded.

When Mayor Wymond W. Walkem, and City Clerk N. A. Morrison, two men who served the community ably for many years, set the old debentures on fire in a vacant lot off Roberts street, it signalled the realization of a dream.

There had been hard times—particularly hard times at Ladysmith. The coal mines that had been the lifeblood of the town and district had closed early in the depression. Other communities, even less hard hit than Ladysmith, could not meet their obligations and resigned their affairs into receivers' hands.

But the people of Ladysmith were of different stuff. They owed money for their water-works and street improvements. There was no question—it must be paid.

So, throughout those lean years of the early depression the ratepayers, scraped and saved; did odd jobs to gain a few cents to put away towards meeting the payments on taxes. Then, in 1936 it was seen that there would be sufficient. The money was paid; the bonds were redeemed.

One of the world's great ship canals, the 16-mile waterway from the North Sea to Amsterdam, was opened in 1876.

Anti-Toxin Rushed to Idaho

Pickled Beets Kill One Three Fight for Lives

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI)—A small, seemingly harmless can of pickled beets yesterday left one man dead and three others fighting for their lives. Planes from both ends of the nation rushed here bearing a total of 53 vials of anti-toxin against the botulism bacilli that killed Aaron Grewell, 74.

Osgood, Idaho, and sickened five others, two gravely. In iron lungs at an Idaho Falls hospital were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nelson and their daughter, Wanda, 15. Another small daughter, Martha, 4, was in less serious condition and Mrs. Grewell was in good condition.

Mrs. Grewell told of the family get-together that brought the Nelsons from their Kansas City, Mo., home to Nelson's grandparents.

She said they ate the home-canned beets on Tuesday, but it was 30 hours later before any of the family fell ill. And it was another half-day before Grewell and the Nelsons were taken to a hospital. She said they thought they had the flu.

The poison hits the nerves controlling breathing and causes a form of paralysis, a family physician said.

LARGE AMOUNTS
Physicians said the treatment takes three days and that large amounts of the serum are needed to counteract the deadly poison produced by the bacilli.

Two of the victims, Nelson and his daughter, were placed in iron lungs yesterday morning, and a third machine was rushed from Pocatello, Idaho, yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Nelson.

Man Held for Questioning In Slaying of Mother, Girl

TRAIL (CP)—A 38-year-old Prince George man was arrested late Thursday for questioning in connection with the beating death of a young mother and her daughter.

The man was picked up by an RCMP highway patrol at Crawford Bay, 20 miles east of Nelson and about 75 miles northeast of Trail. Suffering from an overdose of headache pills, he was treated and moved to jail.

Found beaten to death with a blunt instrument were Mrs. Violet Doris Townsend, 28, and her daughter, Linda, 8. Their bodies were found on a blood-stained bed in their home at nearby Park Siding. A hired hand was missing, along with the family car.

The bodies were found when two other Townsend children and a friend—all under four years of age—were unable to wake their mother and ran 1½ miles to a service station run by Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Piested.

Mrs. Piested said only the oldest child, Tom Townsend, 4, "seemed to know his mother was dead."

The other children were apparently not touched. They are believed to have slept while their mother and sister were slain sometime during the night.

The father, Andrew, was working the graveyard shift at Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company here and knew nothing of the slaying until he arrived home.

He Took Her False Teeth But It Wasn't Larceny

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—Dentist Morris Berney, accused of snatching a set of dentures from the mouth of a 12-year-old girl, was cleared Thursday—and he also retained the false teeth.

A grand jury decided not to indict him on a charge of petty larceny. He said he had been given the teeth voluntarily for repairs.

Police Catch Six On Bookie Premises

When city police raided Magistrate Ostler fined Russell Robertson of 814 Royal Oak Avenue, $250 for impaired driving.

In Oak Bay police court, Elsie May Lachlan, 1122 Newport, was fined $250 for impaired driving. Police said she drove a car into the rear of a trailer-mounted boat on Beach Drive near the Oak Bay Boathouse, driving the boat onto the roof of a truck in front.

Before the court was James Spencer, 1723 Denman, who pleaded guilty to allowing premises under his control to be used for the taking of bets.

Acting Sgt. Leslie Clark told Magistrate Ostler he found Spencer and five other men on the premises at 1.45 p.m. Wednesday. The five other men were sitting down reading racing material and racing sheets. Spencer admitted a number of prior convictions for similar offences. He was remanded to this morning for sentence.

Seventeen-year-old Stanley John Bullivant, 3521 Douglas Street, was sentenced to six months definite and four months indefinite for false pretences involving $15.95 worth of cigarets, films and flashbulbs charged to a fictitious account at the Hudson's Bay Co.

Dash Cuts Seconds At Exorbitant Cost

VANCOUVER (CP)—That mad dash through traffic can get you nowhere.

The Fleet Supervisors Association sent a six-cylinder sedan through four runs on a five-mile stretch of midtown street Thursday. Twice the car leaped ahead at the lights and weaved through traffic as fast as the speed allowed. The other times it was driven as economically as possible.

The results: average speed on the fast test was 25.35 miles an hour with a fuel consumption of 14.4 miles per gallon. On the economy test, the speed averaged 23.75 miles an hour with fuel consumption of 22 miles per gallon.

In brief, the test showed a five-per-cent gain in speed for the fast test at a cost of 53 per cent less fuel economy.

Police Crash Helmets To Get Stronger Straps

The white crash helmets issued to city motorcycle police will be modified to strengthen the snap fastener which joins the chin strap to the side of the helmet.

This was decided yesterday at a meeting of Victoria police commission after Mayor Percy Scurrell, chairman of the commission, and commissioner Chester Downman had examined one of the helmets.

EASILY PARTED

Both men jerked the fastener apart easily by pulling on the strap as they held the helmet in their hands.

Chief Constable John Blackstock said last night he will carry out experiments to determine the best means of strengthening the strap.

Mayor Scurrell said after the meeting one suggested method involved a short strap fastening both to the chin strap, below the snap fastener, and to the helmet itself.

PAYMENT TO WIDOW

The matter arose after the commission voted to honor the police union agreement and pay a month's wages to the widow of motorcycle Const. Earl Doyle, who died from head injuries July 13 after a traffic accident.

Mayor Scurrell was told a number of the city's motorcycle police, including Const. Doyle, were reprimanded two days before the fatal accident for wearing the helmets with the chin straps not secured.

"That is not good enough, Chief," Mr. Scurrell told Chief Blackstock after he had tugged the fastener open seven times.

Veteran Seaman Dead Here at 72

Funeral services for Capt. Llewellyn Sheppard, 72, veteran sailor on the Pacific Coast and a resident of Victoria for 48 years, will be held at 1:30 p.m. today from McCall's funeral home.

Mr. Sheppard, who was born in 1886 in Harbour Grace, Nfld., died Tuesday at Veterans' Hospital.

He came to Victoria in 1911. During the First World War he served with both the Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve. He returned to Victoria in 1919 with the rank of lieutenant commander.

In the same year he joined the federal fisheries service as chief officer of the Stadacona, and later became chief officer and relief captain of the Malaspina. He retired in 1950 as master of CGS Laurier, senior fisheries service vessel.

He was a member of Britannia Lodge No. 50, AF & AM for 40 years.

He is survived by his widow, Mary, a daughter Mrs. Margaret Inglis of Vancouver; two grandchildren; a sister and two brothers in Vancouver and a sister in Newfoundland.

Fraud Foes To Form

VANCOUVER (CP)—About a dozen persons will be asked today to join a consumer council in Vancouver to protect consumers against fraud.

Harold Boulton, secretary-manager of the B.C. division of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada, said in an interview he would ask the unnamed individuals to work as directors.

ACT AS CHAIRMAN

He said he has volunteered to act as chairman for the initial meeting, which he expects to call for Monday.

He said he would like to draw upon the RCMP, the Canadian Association of Consumers, the Vancouver city police fraud detail, city hall and the Vancouver Council of Women for membership.

'SHADY OPERATORS'

Liberal leader Ray Perrault, meanwhile, reiterated previous demands for consumer councils throughout B.C. to halt "shady operators."

He said in a radio address here there should be an anti-fraud squad under the attorney-general's department to gather evidence against persons suspected of fraud.

Says Charles:

'No Latin?' Lucky Chaps!

LONDON (AP)—Here is a comment from Prince Charles on the subject of having to learn Latin.

At a flower show Wednesday at Sandringham, Charles looked over a stall showing what the village kiddies did at school last term.

"No Latin?" inquired the 13-year-old Charles.

"None," he was told.

"Lucky chaps," he sighed.

Bennett an 'Amateur'

IWA Strikers' Morale Never Higher—Morris

VANCOUVER (CP)—Striking Woodworkers got a pep talk from two of their top leaders Thursday at a special meeting of Vancouver Local 214 of the International Woodworkers of America.

Joe Morris of Vancouver, president of IWA District 2, told them the morale among the 25,000 IWA members on strike is "excellent condition... it is the highest that I have ever seen it."

DON'T FOOL
Al Hartung of Portland, Ore., international IWA president, said that with solidarity and the intestinal fortitude to make necessary sacrifices the workers can show the employers that "it doesn't pay to fool with the IWA."

About 800 workmen, some with their wives and families, turned up in 2,500-seat Kerrisdale Arena for the meeting, called by Local 214, which has a membership of about 6,000 in the Vancouver area.

USEFUL PURPOSE
Cec Thompson, local president, said the meeting was called in line with a policy of calling a regular meeting of the membership and families during the strike "whenever we feel it can serve a useful purpose."

Mr. Morris said the operators have been trying to be-cloud the issues with silly statements; that the chairman of the conciliation board which had made recommendations in the dispute was being used by the operators to justify a ridiculous position; and that Premier Bennett "is an amateur in this business... a politician, not a negotiator."

'USING WIVES'
He held up a letter he said had been sent by one of the operators to employees' wives and accused the operator of "trying to use the wives of our workmen to destroy their morale."

"What difference does it make how the wives feel?" he asked.

BREAD AND WATER

Mr. Morris said it had been estimated that the strikers were losing $750,000 each strike day in wages, then asked:

"Are we to place expected gains of the future against some temporary loss of the present. If our forefathers had done that we would still be fighting for a crust of bread and a glass of water."

FOURTH WEEK

The IWA called out its membership in the coastal area nearly four weeks ago when negotiations broke down and conciliation board report was rejected.

"AN AMATEUR"
Premier Bennett suggested Wednesday at a press conference that the employers could afford 10 to 12 cents an hour over one year. Mr. Morris said Mr. Bennett's intentions probably were good, but "in this business he is an amateur... there are more things than money involved."

Truck Found, Driver Dead

PRINCETON (CP)—The body of Bert Anderson, 50, of Richmond was discovered in his wrecked truck near here Thursday.

Police said he was apparently killed Tuesday when the lumber truck left the Hope-Princeton Highway at Whipsaw Hill and plunged 200 feet down the mountainside.

Saanich Official Shares Leadership in Course

Saanich comptroller-treasurer John Tribe is one of two first-place graduates of a province-wide municipal administration course sponsored by the department of municipal affairs and the University of British Columbia.

Mr. Tribe achieved an average of 89 per cent, tying with Clara E. Cartmell of Chilliwack. The four-year courses lead to diplomas in accounting, finance and administration law. They are open to employees of municipalities and school boards throughout the province.

Mr. Tribe graduated with a senior diploma in administration law.

Other Vancouver Island graduates are:

Administration-law, R. L. O. Browne, Wellington; E. W. Turnbull, Camo; H. Nicholas, R. G. Rowledge and E. Wright, Victoria; accounting, H. W. Norman, Victoria; controller-treasurer, W. K. Smith, of the department of municipal affairs; and J. Harrison, Nanaimo.

Blood Gift Contest Proposed

An intermunicipal blood donor competition may be held in September in an attempt to replenish the Victoria Red Cross blood bank.

The civic intermunicipal committee will be asked, soon to give its blessing to the idea. If approved, the contest will be judged on a per capita basis.

A plaque will be presented to the winning municipality.

Jim Tang's TACKLE BOX

Prediction that this was to be an excellent year for coho salmon on Vancouver Island has so far been borne out.

Although there have been an unusually-large number of windy days on the East Coast with anglers in some of the more productive areas shorebound for days at a stretch, more coho are being caught by sports fishermen this year than for some time. And the sports fishermen can look for even better fishing if the strike of the commercial net fishermen continues for any length of time. Already there are reports from Up-Island areas of improved fishing coinciding with the disappearance of seiners and gill-netters.

But while there is nothing wrong with the numbers of coho, there seems little doubt that for some reason or another they are smaller this year than usual. It certainly can't be for the lack of feed, which abounds in most areas, but at a time when most coho should be in the six-to-eight-pound class probably more than half caught by sports fishermen are still less than five pounds.

No one, of course, is complaining but it is something which has been noted and commented on by anglers and boat-house owners from Victoria to Campbell River.

Anglers who like size are honing their hooks with the tyee season at hand. Reports indicate the big fellows, at least the first of them, are already in the Campbell River tyee pool and at least three have been taken in Comox Bay during the past week. Nothing has happened so far in the Alberni Canal but the next week should produce the first action.

Mrs. Ivy McDonald of Campbell River plucked a 48-pounder out of the Campbell River tyee pool this week. Ross Nelson of Los Angeles boated a 34½-pounder, John Smith of Birmingham, Mich., brought in a 33-pounder and there have been a number of catches between 25 and 30 pounds.

At Port Alberni, Bill Clayton of the Port Boat House states that tyee have been netting in the mornings but only a few anglers have been trying to hook one until now. With more boats certain to be out this weekend there should be some definite news.

At Nahmint Bay, which has been the tyee hot-spot for the past two or three years, Gus Buerling is expecting the first of the king-sized salmon daily, predicts he will boat his first one within a week. Action usually starts here about Aug. 10, is normally good until late September.

Anglers who qualified for the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby fish-off—on Sunday, Aug. 16—can pick up their tickets at 1225 Government Street.

Cost, as usual, for the right to compete for the main prizes, including the top award of $500 in cash, is $2.50 and officials request that tickets be picked up as soon as possible. Qualifiers have until Aug. 11 to get their ticket. After that, unfilled qualifying berths will be offered to anglers who failed to qualify after placing a fish on the weekly ladders.

REELIN' IN: Cape Mudge, which has probably been the most productive salmon-fishing area on Vancouver Island this year, is again a hot-spot with a large concentration of coho providing many a limit catch. . . . Bates Beach and Little River, which have suffered heavily from the nor'-westers which have spoiled so much Up-Island fishing this year, are also good. . . . a so-far unconfirmed report has it that Dunc Thompson of Courtenay boated a 72-pound tyee at Phillips Arm recently, not long after a party of six, including two Victoria hopefuls in Bob Wright and myself, discovered that July 13 was a bit early for the Phillips River tyee run. . . . anglers planning a trip to the Nahmint Fishing Lodge should waste no time making the necessary arrangements. It's going to be even busier this year. . . . if you plan trying for a big spring in Cowichan Bay don't hesitate to go deep. Jaul Joncas, fished at when he brought along his wire line and planer Wednesday morning, had the last laugh when it produced the only fish of the morning, a 28-pounder boated despite the fact that it picked up two other lines. . . . that brought the thought that the least the moochers can do when a fish is caught near their boat is to lift their lines. They expect trolls to give them a wide berth when they play a fish. . . . Pedder Bay is yielding some big salmon, particularly on the incoming tide. Best area is "along the wall" on the Rocky Point side. . . . West Bay Marina reports some big salmon taken off Albert Head, Brothie Ledge and Kinver Beach. J. D. McNeill scored in a hurry the other night, hooking into a 29-pounder within 15 minutes after leaving the Marina.

Third-Seeded Player Reaches Tennis Final

Third-seeded Dale Rohland of Los Angeles reached the men's singles final of the B.C. Lawn Tennis Championships last night, coasting to a 6-0, 6-1 victory over fourth-ranked Tony Damiani of Sacramento.

Rohland will meet either Bill Hoogs of Berkeley, Calif., or Jim Jackson of Portland who play in one of eight semi-final matches set today at Victoria.

He Came Last Before Royalty

Colonel Dan Will Never Forget Thursday

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (UPI)—Thursday was a day the Colonel will remember as long as he lives.

It will be a bitter memory, but the bitterness will be tempered with the proud recollection of a Queen and her husband ignoring a defeat and insisting on a still-erect old man of 82 coming to see her in front of crowds who had eyes for nothing else.

The Colonel is Lieutenant-Colonel D. A. MacKinnon, First World War hero, winner of the Distinguished Service Order and the French Croix de Guerre for gallantry in battle.

"Colonel Dan," the Colonel, a founding member and director of the United States Trotting Association, turned out in his red and white silk coat at the White Spot Raceway Thursday to race his own five-year-old, Stalag Hanover, for the Queen's pleasure.

There were eight horses on the race card, but the field suddenly was trimmed to seven when one, a five-year-old mare named Salley Volstadt, fell during a warmup around the track and broke her neck.

The sand-colored automobile carrying the mobile gate started racing down the track, and they were off—seven of Prince Edward Island's finest trotting horses, including the Colonel's Stalag Hanover. Colonel Dan hunched in the sulky, reins grasped tightly in his hands.

The Colonel and his horse were running fourth at the first quarter-mile. Sentiment was heavy on the old money man, but most of the money went elsewhere.

Suddenly there was an almost anguished "Ooh" from the crowd. Stalag Hanover had lost his stride. He had somehow worked his harness loose and kicked one of the two wheels. He took only seconds to get back into stride, but seconds were much too long. He trailed the field by about 10 lengths.

Victory Scott, owned by Syndicate Stables and driven by Dan Seaman, was first past the Queen and the finish line. The Colonel sat, crestfallen but still proud, as his horse carried him in last. Many spectators and Islanders who knew him felt for sure it would be his last race.

But the Colonel, who commanded an artillery brigade in France, later wrote a newspaper, and still writes weekly columns on harness racing and the fur trade, proved he is not a quitter—even in defeat.

He was summoned to the royal box, where he bowed low and then stood ramrod-straight as the Queen and her husband Prince Philip, chatted with him. They said it was too bad about this one race—but would he tell them all about trotting?

"A pleasure, ma'am," said the Colonel. And he did. Later, a reporter asked the Colonel how it felt. "Certainly I'm disappointed," he said. "Naturally you like to win. But I'm not quitting for a long time yet."

Laycoe Here and In Business

Planning for the upcoming Western Hockey League season was started yesterday at the offices of the Victoria Cougars when Hal Laycoe took over his first duties in his new role as manager-coach of the city club. Laycoe, right, waded right in and in no time at all, was on the telephone trying to persuade league-president Al Leader that there were some knotty spots in the Victoria schedule. He's pointing out some of them here to Wilf Ritchie, club vice-president. Laycoe will start getting in touch with prospective players immediately and hopes to sign Jack Bionda as soon as possible. Most other signings will take place during training period, which opens at Memorial Arena, Sept. 19.—(Colonist photo.)

Jack Bionda Sets Mark As Labatts Go Under, 20-13

NEW WESTMINSTER—Incomparable Jack Bionda set a post-war scoring record here last night as he led New Westminster 20-13. Bionda had 89 goals and 38 assists. With five games left to play, Bionda has 62 goals and 66 assists, and at his present pace could break the all-time Inter-City Lacrosse League scoring record. Bill Wilson of the Salmonbellies set that one in 1937, with 135 points on 84 goals and 51 assists.

More than 1,700 fans saw Bionda set up Harold Fox at 14:03 of the final quarter to break the record as the O'Keefe's built up an insurmountable 14-point edge over the second-place Labatts.

Bionda, regarded as the greatest player in the game today, scored seven goals and drew two assists to bring his point total for the season to 128 in 25 games, one more than the mark set by Bobby Allen with Nanaimo Timbermen in 1956.

Allen had 89 goals and 38 assists. With five games left to play, Bionda has 62 goals and 66 assists, and at his present pace could break the all-time Inter-City Lacrosse League scoring record. Bill Wilson of the Salmonbellies set that one in 1937, with 135 points on 84 goals and 51 assists.

More than 1,700 fans saw Bionda set up Harold Fox at 14:03 of the final quarter to break the record as the O'Keefe's built up an insurmountable 14-point edge over the second-place Labatts.

ROCKS HELPED

Victory also helped out Victoria Shamrocks, currently battling Labatts and Vancouver Carlings for the other two playoff spots. The last-place Shamrocks trail Carlings by two points, and host the Vancouver club tonight and Monday. Shamrocks are just three points back of Nanaimo, with a game in hand.

Cliff Sepka padded his hold on second place in the league scoring race with four goals for the season. Don Sepka, Billy Jobb and Doug McRory each scored twice.

Little Gogi Stewart was outstanding for Nanaimo, joining Bionda, Cliff Sepka, Gordie Gimple and teammate Gary Moore as the only players this season to score five goals in one game.

The game was marked by a series of slashing penalties and two double penalties to Skip MacKay of Nanaimo and New Westminster's Ivan Stewart, who were engaged in a bitter duel all evening. New Westminster coach Jake Proctor was thrown out of the game shortly before the end of the first half for protesting too strongly over a call by referee Sid Greenwood.

Gerry Shires and Fred Fulla blocked a total of 25 shots while sharing goaltending chores for Nanaimo.

Two Homers KO Victoria

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—Two homers in the eighth gave Fairbanks, Alaska an 11-9 victory over Victoria and knocked the B.C. team from the Pony League northwest regional tourney here.

Ladysmith, the other Vancouver Island entry, still is "alive" following a 5-3 victory over Portland in the double elimination tourney.

Casey's 'Celebration' Wasn't Too Happy; Sox Whip Yankees

Harried Casey Stengel "celebrated" his 69th birthday in Chicago yesterday and the White Sox marked the occasion with a 100-pound birthday cake—without the icing.

It was a day in which the grizzled manager of the once-proud Yankees must at last have come to the conclusion that he will have to wait until he is at least 70 for his next American League pennant.

With 39-year-old Early Wynn in top form, the White Sox humbled the injury-riddled Yankees, 3-1, and dropped the staggering defending champions into sixth place, 11 games out on the losing side with only 55 to play.

It was Wynn's 14th win of the season and the 260th of a career which dates back 19 big league seasons. He struck out nine—Mickey Mantle twice—to increase his career strike-out total to 1,942, more than any active major leaguer.

INDIANS WIN
Victory kept the Sox a full game ahead of Cleveland Indians, who took the Boston Red Sox, 4-3, as the one-sideline American League race more and more becomes a two-team struggle.

Kansas City Athletics kept on trying to horn into the Cleveland-Chicago race by running their win streak to 11 games with a 4-1 triumph over Washington Senators, who now moan a 10-game losing streak.

ATHLETICS THIRD
Southpaw knuckleballer Bud Daley, traded from Cleveland last year, won his 12th for the red-hot Athletics with late-inning help from Tom Sturdivant. The win put Kansas City in third place, but the A's are still 8½ games out of first place.

In the National League, San Francisco Giants, paced by the hitting of rookie Willie McCovey, slammed back into first place.

McCovey, flown from the Giants' Phoenix farm club, lined out two triples and two singles, scored three times and batted in two teammates in a 7-2 triumph over Philadelphia Phillies. He played first base as the Giants sent Orlando Cepeda to third base to get more punch into their batting order.

DOGGERS LOSE
Giving the Giants a helping hand were the Pittsburgh Pirates, who broke a nine-game losing streak with a 5-4 win at Los Angeles which dropped the Dodgers to third place. Moving up a notch into the runner-up spot were the Milwaukee Braves.

Tripucka Sharp Lions Edged By Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI)—Ottawa Rough Riders, their newly-acquired quarterback Frank Tripucka passing with pinpoint accuracy, edged the British Columbia Lions 24 to 22 last night in an exhibition football game at Lansdowne Park.

The veteran Tripucka, picked up in a five-for-one trade with Saskatchewan, completed an amazing 14 of 15 pass attempts as the Riders jumped to a 17-1 lead in the first half and then held off a sustained B.C. drive in the final 30 minutes.

The loss was the first for the Lions after two straight exhibition victories. It was the first pre-season start for the Riders.

More than 9,000 fans saw Tripucka, a Western Conference record-setter in six years at Regina, throw touchdown passes to Canadians Dave West and Bob Simpson to give the home club its margin of victory. Returning import halfback Gerry Nesbitt ran for the third Ottawa touchdown and kicked a single and end Mack Yoho, another returning American, added two converts and a 20-yard field goal.

ON DOROW'S PASS
Canadian halfback Bill Britton and rookie import Willie Fleming each scored one touchdown for the Lions on short runs. Veteran American halfback Paul Cameron, again playing at end, counted the other on a pass from quarterback Al Dorow.

Ted Hunt booted three B.C. converts. Homebrew Larry Sparrow kicked a 51-yard single for the other point.

With Tripucka in the pivot slot most of the time, the Riders looked in the first half like they were going to make a shambles of the game. While the Big Four club moved well both on the ground and through the air the Lions, quarterbacked by rookie Mike Ogio of Iowa, could muster little by either route.

DIFFERENT STORY
The second 30 minutes, however, was a different story. With first Dorow and then All-American Randy Duncan calling the shots, the western club took control of the play and only time and a couple of bad breaks kept them from pulling the game out.

Duncan, who didn't get into the game until the final quarter, more than lived up to his advance billing. Hitting on four straight pass tries and exhibiting some amazing ball-handling, he led the Lions on two long drives, one of which produced their final score.

South Island Fishing Good

Salmon fishing off the Victoria waterfront remains below-normal but there is evidence that things are picking up elsewhere in south Vancouver Island waters.

Anglers are scoring off Otter Point and in the Pedder Bay area, picking up good-sized springs and a fair number of coho. West Bay Marina reports that big springs are showing, too, off Albert Head, Kinver Beach and Brochle Ledge.

Brightening the picture further has been the start of the annual Cowichan Bay spring salmon run and improved fishing in Saanich Inlet.

Fraser Enters Canadian Meet

OTTAWA — John Fraser of Victoria and Vicki Berner of Vancouver head a five-player B.C. team to compete in the Canadian junior tennis championships at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club here Aug. 5-13.

Fraser, 15, has been top-seeded in the juvenile singles.

Miss Berner, 13, is also top-seeded in juvenile competition.

The B.C. team will be competing with about 300 players from Canada and the United States.

Sharpshooter

Ron Jay, who scored three goals on three shots Tuesday at Victoria Shamrocks beat Carlings, 10-8, in Vancouver, will be in action tonight at Memorial Arena on a line with Whitney Severson and Bert Bertola as the clubs continue their battle for a playoff spot in the Inter-City Lacrosse League. Game time is 8.30.

Farmers Split On Final Play

Saanich Farmers split a doubleheader in the midweek division of the Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association yesterday as both were decided on the final play of the game.

Farmers won the first game, 7-6, from OK Tire on a goal by Dennis Sproule just before the final whistle. Then James Bay beat Farmers, 10-9, in the final seconds on Gerald Harvey's fourth goal.

Some Tricky Cricket Terms Explained

By DEREK CASSELS

MONTREAL (CP) — Traditionally-reared Englishmen and bleachers-bred Canadians are likely to be at loggerheads again with the start today of a series of cross-country matches between the Marylebone Cricket Club and Canadian teams. MCC plays in Victoria Aug. 18.

Non-cricketing Canadians will again be astounded, bemused, baffled, puzzled and perplexed by such terms as let-by, silly mid-on, silly mid-off, leg-break, googly and bowl a maiden over.

It is hard to explain these without going into all of cricket's complexities. But roughly, a let-by is a ball which bounces off the batter's leg, just as a leg break is one which "breaks" towards his leg when it is bowled.

A googly ball, the Oxford English dictionary says tersely, is "an off-break ball bowled with a leg-break action." Perfectly obvious, of course.

Silly mid-on and silly mid-off are fielding positions so close to the batter anyone who plays them is thought a little "silly" or at least fool-hardy.

And bowling a maiden over, however romantic it may sound, is simply an "over" in which no runs are scored.

much like a scoreless inning in baseball. An over, of course, is six bowls or pitches by the bowler.

The visiting Englishmen, on the other hand, can be excused raised eyebrows at baseball's dugout, mound, homer and shortstop.

The MCC means more to cricket than the New York Yankees have meant to baseball. The club governs the sport and supervises the game generally.

Generally MCC touring teams include players from other clubs and more or less represent England. The team which starts its tour in Montreal today has members from Cambridge, Oxford and county players from Lancashire, Middlesex and Somerset.

Cricket is perhaps more traditionally English than tea in the afternoon. The fact that the game has survived a thousand years is to most North Americans nothing short of a miracle.

The written records of the court of Edward I refer to the game in 1304. Certainly cricket was well established before that. The son of George II, Frederick, Prince of Wales, is reputed to have died as the result of being struck on the head by a cricket ball.

Nine Tied at Top

MINNEAPOLIS (CP)—Nine of the National Professional Golfers' Association tournament players tied for first place Thursday in the opening round shooting 69s, one under par for the Minneapolis Golf Club course. There are three more rounds.

Bill Casper Jr., who won the U.S. Open last month, and Mike Souchak set the early pace. Then one after another, the top performers of the golf world made their bids to pass them. Seven caught up, but none went ahead.

Tied with Casper and Souchak were Gene Littler, Jerry Barber, Walter Burkemo, Jackson Bradley, Mike Krak, Dick Hart and Chuck Klein.

Such performers as Art Wall Jr., the year's leading money-winner; Jack Burke, a former PGA champ; Ken Venturi and Billy Maxwell were among a big group with par 70s.

Remember When:

Finland's famed track star, Paavo Nurmi, was barred from participating in the 1952 Olympic Games at Los Angeles by the International Amateur Athletic Federation 27 years ago Tuesday. Nurmi was previously suspended by the same organization in April, 1931, for allegedly accepting money in excess of his expenses. His last big public appearance in running was as a torchbearer at the 1952 Olympic Games at Helsinki. He ran into the stadium and lit the Olympic flame.

Top-Rated Ontario Golfer Upset

B.C. Champion in Junior Final

MONTREAL (CP)—Alan Kennedy of Vancouver and Gordon LeRiche of Montreal eliminated two highly-rated Ontario contenders Thursday in the semi-finals of the Canadian junior golf championship and will meet today in the 36-hole final.

The 18-year-old British Columbia junior champion overcame a three-hole deficit on the back nine to score a brilliant one-up victory over the favored Bobby Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., open amateur champion.

LeRiche moved into a two-hole lead over Phil Brownlee of Toronto before the turn, increased it at the 11th, and maintained it the rest of the way.

Kennedy's defeat of the 17-year-old Panasiuk was considered the upset of the tournament.

The young golfer from Vancouver's Marine Drive Club had an approximate medal score of 69, one under par. Panasiuk had an even par 70.

Kennedy barred every one of the first eight holes and was down three. Panasiuk sank three birdie putts, twice getting out of traps and one putting. His first lapse came at the ninth where he three-putted and Kennedy won the hole with a par three. For the nine holes Panasiuk had 14 putts and Kennedy 18.

Kennedy went three down at the 11th where he put his tee shot into a trap. Things looked bad for the Vancouver boy but his consistency paid off and he took the next two holes with pars. Panasiuk hooked his drive into a bush at the 12th and three-putted the 13th to lose both holes.

The 14th was halved in pars and Kennedy finally squared the match at the 15th, sinking a three-birdie putt after a beautiful shot. The long 16th was halved in pars and Kennedy went ahead for the first time at the short 17th and halved the 18th.

In four years he has outgrown his present location.

'Murder-Kit' Doctor Facing Trial in Slaying of Wife

WEST COVINA, Calif. (UPI)—Dr. Bernard Finch, accused of killing his socialite wife, was bound over for superior court trial yesterday by a judge who described himself as a long-time friend of the defendant and his father.

Municipal Judge Albert Miller said he "could not consider friendship—the court cannot close its eyes to the facts of the case."

The handsome 41-year-old doctor—who at one stage despairingly put his head down on a table—was remanded to jail without bail at the close of a four-day preliminary hearing. He will appear for arraignment Aug. 17.

ACCOMPLICE

His red-haired girl friend, Carole Tregoff, was charged with murder as his accomplice in the July 18 shooting of Barbara Finch.

The prosecution charges Finch and his 22-year-old woman friend drove here from Las Vegas on the night of the killing with a deliberate plan to kill the doctor's estranged wife and place her body in a car before pushing it over a cliff.

Deputy District Attorney Fred Whichello said Finch had with him a "murder kit" which contained rope, a sectional solution an eight-inch butcher knife and other articles.

INJECTION

"I believe they (Finch and Miss Tregoff) plan was to tie Mrs. Finch with rope, give her an injection of sedative and put her in her car and push it off the cliff," said Whichello.

The sharp conflict in testimony between Marieann Lidholm, Swedish exchange student who was a maid in the Finch home, and Miss Tregoff highlighted the hearing. The 19-year-old girl insisted Finch held a gun in his hand over his wife's body the night of the slaying after she heard Mrs. Finch's screams.

Neither woman testified they saw the fatal shot fired. But Miss Tregoff said it was Mrs. Finch who first pulled out a gun, refusing to talk with her husband about a divorce.

Repeat of Drama Sags Amateurishly

By WILLIAM EWALD
NEW YORK (UPI)—This is the season of regurgitation on TV and it is only fitting that the U.S. Steel Hour should have elected Wednesday night to cast up a live repeat.

The retread selected by the CBS-TV drama show was a Sumner Locke Elliott piece, "Wish on the Moon," last seen on TV back in 1953. That original starred Eva Marie Saint and Phyllis Kirk, two ladies who have since gone on to headliner projects. This one offered Peggy Ann Garner and Erin O'Brien, two ladies who may go on to headliner things, but not on the strength of Wednesday night's outing.

"Wish on the Moon" is not a very sturdy vehicle or original one. It deals with two young girls—one questing for a career, the other for a husband—whose paths cross and who Does Public Want Them?

Goodbye Double Features

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The time has come for the movie industry to do some thinking about the double feature.

Does the public still want it? Can the film business still afford it?

The twin bill has been with us since the depression days, when theatres tried to cure lagging business by giving the public double its money's worth.

Double features long have been attacked by producers, especially Samuel Goldwyn, but they continued to be the mode of film presentation. Why? Because theatre men thought movie-goers liked it that way.

But times have changed. As a straw in the wind, Variety tells of two single-featured houses in Long Island, N.Y., that generally outdraw the double-feature theatres in the area.

The owner of the houses is convinced his patrons prefer good single films with a few shorts to round out a two-hour bill.

It makes sense. Isn't it better to see an engrossing two-hour show, have some refreshment afterward and get home at a decent hour? Or would you rather paralyze your posterior through four and five hours of movie watching and return to pay the sinner a whopping bill?

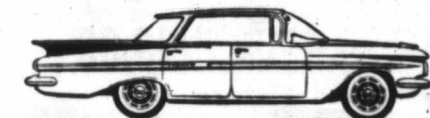

If the movie-goer can be convinced that the double feature is no bargain, the theatre men will come around.

CAPITOL

Festival Drama Survives Axes, Makes Comeback

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mary Stuart, the Vancouver international festival's theatrical production for 1959, survived the axe-like bombing of first-night critics to come back smelling like a rose.

Boasting the talents of Sweden's Viveca Lindfors as the Scottish queen, veteran actress Eva Le Gallienne and a big handful of top Canadian talent, the play fell almost flat on its face Tuesday.

LITTLE SYMPATHY

Nathan Cohen, of the Toronto Star, said the festival acoustically had drawn a blank. He said Miss Lindfors got little sympathy as she skidded toward the axe. The rest of the cast, he said, was not much better. Local critics said about the same.

The cast took the words to heart and Wednesday night Vancouver Sun critic Jack Richards went back for a second look.

THRILLING-RESCUE

"They staged a thrilling rescue at International Cinema," said Richards' review. "And while the... play is not yet out of the woods, there's high hopes."

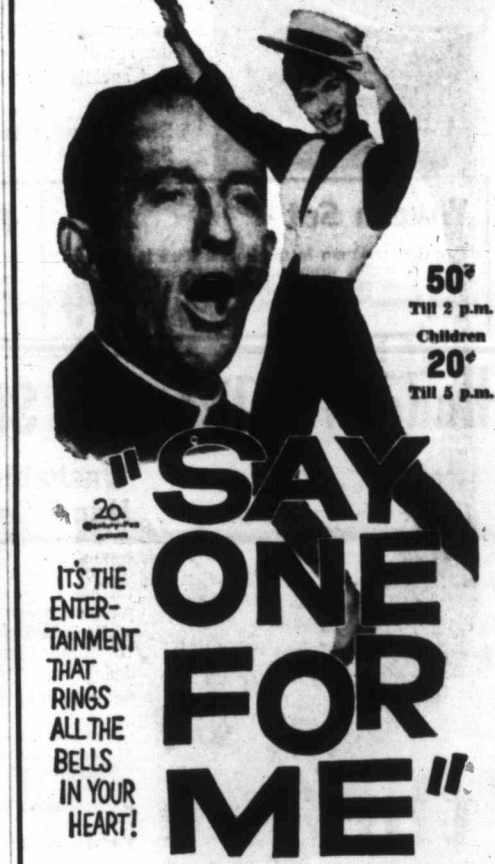

Wednesday, the critic said "someone will have to mount a charger" to rescue the production. "Wednesday night the rescue came."

Worried Motelmén Plan
Emergency Rally Today

Ferry
Ahead
Of Plan

Victoria may get its long-awaited year-round ferry link with Port Angeles as early as Oct. 1 this year if there are no delays in completion of the $3,000,000 car ferry Mv Coho.

R. J. Acheson, president of Black Ball Transportation Inc., Seattle, said last night that "barring unforeseen circumstances" the 341-foot car ferry will be completed four to six weeks ahead of schedule.

STICKING TO DATE

"The shipyard is sticking to its Nov. 14 contract date," he said. "But I would say that we are six weeks ahead of schedule now."

The new ferry, capable of carrying 1,000 passengers and 125 vehicles, will make one round trip daily during the winter months. Service will be stepped up as required.

MONTH EARLIER

Mr. Acheson said "barring unforeseen circumstances we'll have her in operation not later than Nov. 1," and possibly a full month earlier.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said the announcement that year-round service to Port Angeles would start this fall was "good news." But he added that it doesn't solve the big problem of maintaining ferry service between Victoria and Vancouver.

NO COMMENT

Tourist officials declined to comment at present on probability that Washington State Ferries would be asked to keep the Mv. Kalakala in service after Sept. 28.

C. E. Blaney, Victoria agent for WSF, said to his knowledge no request has been made to WSF for continuation of the service beyond the summer schedule.

Mystery Fireball
Rumbles in Sky

A mysterious, orange-colored ball of fire that rumbled like a motorcycle engine was reported streaking in a southeasterly direction high over Victoria skies at 11.15 last night.

Douglas Porteous of 1670 North Dairy Road, who sighted the glowing object, speculated that it might have been a flying saucer or parts of a Siberian-launched Russian rocket burning up as it re-entered the earth's atmosphere.

METEORITE?

An astronomer on duty at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain said it might have been a meteorite, but added that meteorites are not known to give off any sound as they plummet toward earth.

He said the huge telescope was pointed toward the east at the time and that the glow was not seen from there.

None of the Greater Victoria police stations received any reports.

NO MOTORCYCLE

Mr. Porteous said he was working in his yard when he "heard a motorcycle going by." He didn't see any motorcycle.

"It began to get fainter," he said. "I looked up into the air and I saw this great thing going over. It was real bright, a flaming orange color.

"The thing flashed brilliantly a couple of times. It was heading in the direction of Seattle."

Mortgage
For Widow

A fund to raise $4,000 to help the widow of a volunteer fireman pay off the mortgage on her Langford home has been started by Langford and District Lions Club and the volunteer fire department.

Edward Fisher, 47, was stricken while helping fight a brush fire last Saturday. He is survived by his widow, Elsie, and three children, Ronald, 9, Sandra, 8, and Richard, 7.

A spokesman for the fund drive said last night the family is in danger of losing the home. Donations may be sent to 706 Goldstream Avenue, or will be picked up if donors phone GR 8-3515.

Everything—Even Weather
Aided Symphony Concert

By BERT BINNY

Everything — this time including the weather — conspired to ensure the success of the second symphony concert at Butchart Gardens last night.

It was a pleasant evening; there was the big, stirring voice of Metropolitan singer, Roald Reitan; there was fine orchestral music; there was the unparalleled amplification system; there were the idyllic surroundings.

These concerts are, indeed, completely delightful.

The crowd, estimated at 5,000 by a Gardens official, was like a colorful sea; completely still and calm in the centre but with slight ripples of movement at the edge.

Licence plates on parked cars testified to the far-flung places whence this audience came; east to Ontario and south to Texas and from a dozen states and provinces between.

One member of the audience remarked that "even the trees seemed to be listening." Soloist, Roald Reitan of

Brainwave
Needed
By Industry

An emergency meeting of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Auto Courts and Motels Association will be held today to discuss the "serious plight" of about half its members.

Fred Martin, president of the association here, said last night the meeting is being held in the hope "someone will come up with a brainwave to get more tourists here."

In a frank appraisal of the 1959 tourist season so far, he said "about half our members are in trouble."

OUTSIDE CITY AREA

The section of the industry hardest hit is that situated outside the immediate Victoria area.

"Those of us who are downtown are not doing too badly, but further out, some of the motels are getting only one guest a day—or none," he said.

"Many of these people have got their life savings invested and they are sick and heart-broken over the turn of business."

Mr. Martin said not only are there fewer tourists this year, but they are staying for a shorter period and they have less money to spend.

BOATS, TRAILERS

"My own guests have told me that. Many of them are bringing boats and trailers with them, and they represent the best part of $2,000, and the family just hasn't as much to spend as it did before."

He said one motel owner reported a single guest in a 10-unit layout between a Friday and a Monday.

One remedy which he will propose to members today is better co-ordination of advertising.

TRANSIT-SYSTEM

"I'd like to see some of that advertising money channeled into transit-system advertising in the U.S."

"Alberta is having a record tourist year and it followed a big advertising program."

He said the motel industry has 1,200 accommodation units in the general Victoria area—up 122 units from last year.

"But with the natural annual increase in the population along the Pacific coast from Mexico north, 122 more units should be just a drop in the bucket."

ADD 120 UNITS

"We should be able to add about 120 units every year."

He said he didn't think that the increase in the number of provincial camping areas is having any noticeable effect on the industry.

"One of the things we have noticed is that more tourists are coming here with just 24-hour permits."

"They just aren't staying. We'd better come up with something or else some people are going to go pretty hungry this winter."

Police Promoted

Two city police constables—Peter Voth and James Ramsay—were yesterday promoted to first-class constables at a meeting of the city police commission.

Bible verses and songs are taught at the Oaklands Chapel vacation school along with handicrafts. Serious painters are Star Wyatt, seven, and Andrea Wyatt, six, 1325 Kings. Started this year, school may become annual event.—(Colonist photos.)

Diet Uncertain

When James Island's most famous resident, Flipper the seal, swam out of the blue Pacific into the arms of civilization two weeks ago she hadn't a problem in the world.

Today she has to contend with:

1. A threat to her daily diet of six pounds of fresh fish due to a fishing industry strike.

2. An offer to become an attraction with Barnum & Bailey.

3. Hordes of visitors who arrive at her front door in everything from modest dinghies to twin-engine cabin cruisers.

4. Frequent requests to perform before television cameras.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Askey, whose three sons, John, Randy and David befriended Flipper when she got stranded on the beach in front of their home, are helping the month-old seal pup with as many of the problems as they can.

They have advised her to turn down the circus offer, helped her to entertain her daily guest list, assisted her in preparing for the TV cameras—but the fish strike has them baffled.

"Flipper eats five to six pounds of fresh fish every day, and to supplement the bullheads and things the boys have been catching we have been getting fresh fish offal from the packers," says attractive Mrs. Askey.

"But now with the strike on there isn't any offal and I don't know what we're going to do."

"If fishermen cruising past the north end of James Island have anything to spare in the fresh fish or fish-offal line all they have to do is give us a shout and I'll row out to pick it up."

Mrs. Askey is afraid she may have to ask an aquarium or zoo to look after Flipper if she can't get the fish.

"The Barnum & Bailey man telephoned and offered us $50 for Flipper but we didn't think she should be in a circus," she explained.

"We've never had so many visitors to James Island before. People from California, from Washington and Vancouver."

"If they would just bring fish with them we'd be all set."

Sea Sled Search
Called Off
As Crew Reports

Search for a Victoria-built boat which failed to show up at Ketchikan, Alaska, for yesterday's start of a 723-mile outboard motorboat race to Seattle was called off last night after the missing boat and her two-man crew were reported safe at Comox.

The catamaran sea sled Rebel left Victoria Saturday enroute to Ketchikan but developed engine trouble and put in to Lund's Harbor north of Powell River.

Skipper of the twin-engine craft, Carmen Pascoe, 1683 Foul Bay Road, and navigator Jack Blower, 1223 Sunnyside, wired Bill Walters of Victoria on Monday for a new set of electrical wiring but apparently were unable to effect repairs in time to reach Ketchikan in time for the race.

Carmen's sister, Mrs. Yolanda Hancock, also of 1683

Foul Bay, said last night that both men were safe in Comox and that they planned to return to Victoria by car.

The U.S. Coast Guard began a search when the catamaran failed to arrive at Alaska.

Six outboard motorboats started in the race which is expected to end about 5 p.m. Sunday in Seattle's Shilshole Bay. Speeding southward along the scenic inside passage between Vancouver Island and the mainland, the boats will make two runs each day, with stops at lunch and overnight.

Hardly Cricket
And Not Bowling

It certainly wasn't cricket and it probably didn't look much like bowling, either, when three juveniles—two 10 years old and one 11 years old—scattered bowling balls on the bowling green in Beacon Hill Park early Thursday morning.

Cordell Numbay, 1161 Camrose Crescent, reported to police about 1 a.m. that the bowling clubhouse had been broken into. Police found a number of balls had been taken from lockers and scattered on the green.

At 6.20 a.m. a constable found three young boys sleeping under a tarpaulin in Thunderbird Park. They admitted having entered the bowling clubhouse.

This Week

Two of Oak Bay's most accident-prone intersections will get traffic light protection this week.

Regular-style traffic signals will be installed at the intersections of Foul Bay Road and Oak Bay Avenue, and Foul Bay Road and Cadboro Bay Road. Between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m., they will operate as warning flashers.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: Memories of a former love haunt me night and day and I DO mean haunt. Just when I think I have my conscious thoughts under control I start to daydream and I'm off again.

This isn't a "post-honeymoon flash." It's been going on for 10 years—and getting worse. Perhaps if I see this in print the pure disgust of it will cure me.

Since I'm asking your advice it isn't fair to withhold important information. No, Ann, I don't care for my husband and I'm tired of trying to love him. But I still put on an act hoping one day I'll feel something real. We are blessed in other ways and I keep telling myself I have much to be thankful for.

I Would Like to Know

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to know, please, what is wrong with sitting in a car in broad daylight talking to a boy? Chuck parked his car in our back yard which is in full view of our kitchen window. My mother could look out and see us any time she wanted to. It so happened we had a lot to talk about and the conversation lasted two hours. When I came in the house both my mother and dad tore into me like I had committed some terrible sin or something. I'm 16, Chuck is 17 and we are both respectable people who know right from wrong. No lectures on juvenile delinquency please—just answer my question: What is wrong with sitting in a car with a boy in broad daylight?—PICKED ON.

We Had a Big Fight

Dear Ann: My husband's take home pay is just enough to get by on if I wait every penny. He's been coming home from work later and later. Last night he didn't come home at all. He showed up at 7 a.m. to change clothes.

We had a big fight. He was just paid and when I asked for rent and grocery money he said he didn't have it. I asked where it went and he said, "It's my business. I earn the money and can spend it as I see fit. If you don't like it, go out and get a job."

He doesn't gamble and I don't think he sees other women. But he does drink more than he should. Is it possible he's spending his entire pay cheque on liquor. Give me your opinion, please, and tell me what I can do about it?—ONLY A HOUSEKEEPER. (P.S. I can't go to work. I have four small children.)

Dear Housekeeper: If he likes to drink, it's not only "possible" that he's spending his pay cheque on liquor—it's likely.

The big problem with drinking men is this: When they start to see double they feel single. They forget about

But the dreams keep haunting me. What can I do? — WILL TRY.

Dear Will Try: It's easy to build fantasies around a former boy friend. You don't have to wash his socks, put up with his relatives, cure his hangovers or listen to him snore.

The one who got away always looks better. Chances are, if you'd have married him you'd be having daydreams about your husband.

You say you're "blessed and have much to be thankful for." Well, don't jeopardize all this for a fantasy that's been improving with age. Dream castles are fun for an occasional visit but don't try to live in them.

Dear Picked On: I know you have a home because you referred to the kitchen window. So what's wrong with inviting Chuck into the house?

You say you are both respectable people who know right from wrong. Fine. Add this bit of information to the list of "right and wrong." Automobiles are vehicles for transportation. A lady entertains guests in her home—not in a car.

home, wife, kids, bills—anything that means responsibility.

Liquor is the escape hatch. When life gets rough they think they'll find the rainbow at the bottom of the bottle.

He needs help and there are places he can go to get it. If he refuses to see a clergyman or A.A., tell him you plan to see a lawyer about separate roofs. The law says a husband must support his wife and family or go to jail.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Reunited after 54 years—Mr. George L. Bruch and Mr. Joseph F. Bruch in the back row. Front are Mrs. Kay Bruch, Frau Poldi Gilcher of Austria and Mrs. Elizabeth Bruch.

Brother, Sister Meet Here—First Time in 54 Years

A brother and sister who met here this week for the first time in 54 years, did not recognize each other.

Separated by half the world for half a century, Mr. Jo Bruch, of 3092 Albany Street, Victoria, and his sister, Frau Poldi Gilcher, of Vienna, Austria, were together again Saturday.

Frau Gilcher has travelled across Canada visiting her brothers, none of whom she has seen since childhood.

ONLY SURVIVORS

She and four brothers are the only survivors of a family of 14.

One brother, Mr. George Bruch, now farms at Melville, Sask. Another, Mr. Nick Bruch is maintenance supervisor in a school in Hamilton, Ont. Mr. Philip Bruch works in an office in Orillia, Ont., while Mr. Jo Bruch is a builder here in Victoria.

In 1911, their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Bruch, emigrated to Duval, Sask., with six children.

Much has changed for this family during those years. Even their hometown in Austria, once called Lemberg, has a new name, Lwow.

Frau Gilcher is the widow of a wealthy Austrian engineer and landowner, who lost most of his belongings during the Russian occupation of Vienna. All she will say of the war is "it was a bad time for all of us."

EYES LIGHT UP

Speaking of Vienna, her eyes light up. She says now that all war damage is repaired, and it is more beautiful than ever.

Her impressions of Canada are confused and consist mainly of friendly parlors where she has sat with her brothers and their families and reminded. They talk in German, which is a language her Canadian brothers do not use much any more, but Frau Gilcher is learning English.

LOOKED ABOUT 60

Brother George and his wife travelled with her to Victoria from Saskatchewan which was just as well. When Jo met them off the boat here he thought she was just another passenger. "Poldi is 74 years old but when I saw her I thought she looked only about 60," he said.

This small, grey-haired lady intends to return to Austria in the fall.

Mr. Jo Bruch came to Victoria eight years ago with his family. They lived in the Okanagan for many years but found he missed his sons when they left home to come to Victoria, so followed them.

Family ties are strong in the Bruch family.

PERSONAL MENTION

A host of Belgian notables, both from Brussels and from the consulate in Ottawa, are arriving in town next week to participate in two important ceremonies.

The first is the handing over of RCN ship HMCS Winnipeg under NATO commitments to the Belgian Navy in ceremonies at HMCS Dockyard on the morning of August 7. The same day, at 2 p.m., the Belgian dignitaries will attend graduation ceremonies at HMCS Venture. Among the company are His Excellency Jacques de Thier and Mme. Thier, Belgian Ambassador to Canada; Lt.-Col. Comte Francois de Henricourt de Grunne, military, navy and air attaché, Belgium and Madame de Grunne; Comde and Mrs. L. J. J. Robbins, chief of naval staff, Belgian Navy; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gilson, Belgium, minister of national defence, and The Hon. and Madame Leon Baker.

Holidaying in Victoria

Holidaying in Victoria is Miss Mary Armitage, Ottawa. Miss Armitage, a former Victorian, is staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Armitage, Old West Saanich Road. She will return to the national capital shortly to resume her duties as private secretary to Hon. Howard Green, Minister of External Affairs in the House of Commons.

Arriving from England

Mrs. K. Banks is arriving by air today from England to stay for several weeks with her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. Peter Banks and Mrs. Banks at their home at 2997 Seaview Road.

Returned from Edmonton

Mrs. R. Eaton, of Inlet Avenue, has just returned from Edmonton where she was visiting her son, Professor R. S. Eaton, who with his wife and herself were presented to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip at Coronation Park, July 21.

Week at Fishing Camp

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Caffele, of Vancouver, have been spending a week at St. Mary's Lake Fishing Camp. Until recently, Mr. and Mrs. Caffele were residents of Fulford Harbor. They have been enjoying boating and fishing whilst on Salt Spring Island.

Guests at Ganges

Recent guests at Circle (K) Park, Ganges included Lieut. and Mrs. Ian C. Inglis, Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. O. Olson, Lake Cowichan; Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lewis, Chemainus; Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall, Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. L. Goodman, of Nanaimo.

Miscellaneous Shower

A miscellaneous shower for Miss Carol Foster was held Tuesday, July 21, at the home of Miss Doreen M. Essery, 3879 Carey Road. Guests included: Mrs. R. Foster, mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. W. G. Cullimore, the groom elect's mother, Mrs. M. Minty, Mrs. F. Heal, the Misses Pam Head, Chris Lanning, Shirley Chatfield, Diana Hasanen, Pat Emmett, Susan Burrows, Gail Faville, Dale Jones, and Laura Cullimore.

Wedding in Derbyshire

The wedding took place on July 28, at Ilkeston, Derbyshire, England, of Ann Coleman, younger daughter of the late Dr. Leslie Coleman of Victoria and sister of Dr. and Mrs. John Coleman, of Duncan, to Mr. Neville Haddock, of Ilkeston. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McDivitt, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bishop, of Victoria, and Mr. Charles Palmer, formerly of Victoria. The newlyweds will be living in England where Mr. Haddock is to teach at the University of Birmingham.

Bride-Elect Feted

Miss Barbara Jones, whose marriage to Sub-Lt. John B. Murray, RCN, takes place this weekend, has been widely feted by her friends.

Mrs. A. Wallis of Maddison Avenue entertained at the home of the bride-elect's parents at a shower. Little Kenneth Wallis dressed in miniature naval uniform gave gifts from a replica ship HMCS Swanssea. Corsages were given to Miss Jones, her mother, Mrs. A. H. Jones, and her grandmother, Mrs. C. W. McIlroy. Guests at the affair were Mrs. T. Park, Mrs. J. J. Porter, Mrs. G. Ellis, Mrs. W. Rose, Mrs. B. Burgess, Mrs. J. Barr, Mrs. P. Hope and the Misses M. Broadbridge, M. Cook, J. Ball, D. Holt and M. Barr.

Visitors from Oshawa

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Burgess, from Oshawa, Ontario, are staying with their son and daughter-in-law, Sub-Lt. and Mrs. B. J. Burgess of 1712 Kings Road. Main purpose of the visit is to meet their new granddaughter, Kelly Ellen, baby daughter of Sub-Lt. and Mrs. Burgess. Other family guests are sister and brother of Sub-Lt. Burgess, Bonnie and Brian.

Europe-Bound

Newlyweds Set Out On Trip to Okanagan

Motoring to the Okanagan are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Roland Morneau, married in a pretty ceremony in St. Andrew's Cathedral by Father J. O'Connell.

The bride is the former Jeannette Mavis Wakely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Wakely, Kent Road, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philippe Morneau, Toronto Street.

Tall baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the church.

For her evening wedding, the bride chose a full-length gown with a bodice of French lace, topped with blue and white sequins on the cap sleeves and scalloped neckline. The sequins formed a pleated cummerbund that swept down the full, chiffon skirt to form a small train. The quipped headress held a chapel veil, and she carried red roses, stephanotis and stocks.

Miss Joan McMillan, wearing white nylon flecked with tiny coral flowers, and Miss Elise Morneau, in white with yellow, were attendants to the bride.

Mr. Edward Olivier was best man, and ushers were Mr. David Wakely and Mr. Raymond Morneau.

For her honeymoon trip, Mrs. Morneau wore a floral sheath with beige duster and hat and white accessories.

Dior Bad News For Knob Knees

PARIS (UPI)—Women with knobby knees groaned in unison yesterday: the kneecap is coming back into fashion again for the first time since the roaring twenties.

For shorter skirts are what Yves Mathieu Saint-Laurent has decreed for fall in the House of Dior fashion showing this morning.

A lot of men dislike bony kneecaps but that may not help much. Dior's word has been fashion law for nearly a dozen years and the latest dictate could be as expensive as the late Christian Dior's "new look" of 1949.

AROUND MIDCalf

For those who think there is no area of the female form less appealing than the knee, there is the fact that virtually every other Paris designer has been plugging long skirts—around midcalf.

But by noon yesterday the short hemline was official to many women of the world who believe what the 23-year-old successor to Christian Dior tells them.

Such solid citizens as Jacques Heim, president of the governing body of high fashion (the Chambre Syndicale de la Parfumerie), and the ageless Mademoiselle "Coco" Chanel showed skirts at a respectable length—between the top and middle portion of the calf.

SWEET, CASUAL WAY

Except for Chanel, who always goes her own sweet casual way, the others pushed hard for a broad-shouldered, long torso line. To sideline observers this seemed to be a drastic enough departure from last season's pretty girl "back-to-nature" silhouette.

But they did not reckon on the multi-million dollar establishment on the elegant Avenue Montaigne, just off the Champs Elysee, where fashion history has been made since 1947.

The new look of 1947 has been talked about ever since because its success pulled French fashion out of a post-war slump. France is in better economic shape than ever but dressmaking is one of her most important industries.

HAVE TO BE DIFFERENT

The House of Dior knows that to sell dresses you have to be different even if being different means showing off parts of the female shape that might better be left to the imagination.

Papa's Rule Knocked Out

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—West Germany's constitutional court has knocked out papa's traditional last word on how the family should be run.

Mama, it ruled, has precisely equal rights when it comes to the education and legal representation of the children.

Hot, Jammed Algiers War-Boom Centre

ALGIER (AP)—The capital of Algeria lives the feverish life of a war-boom city.

Daytime, bumper-to-bumper automobile traffic jams the narrow streets, never planned as modern thoroughfares.

Over the busy harbor, crowded with freighters and passenger ships, French army helicopters transport the wounded from the field.

On the wharf, noisy merchants peddle their goods and giant trucks push their way through traffic.

In the evening, a scattering of celebrating soldiers and civilians from the Sahara fields roam virtually deserted streets.

Behind the heavy curtains of the city gambling casino, roulette stakes grow higher every night.

Brothels in dingy, filthy-strewn alleys rake in the cash. In dance halls, blackjack-carrying waiters ignore those who don't order champagne or whisky.

Hundreds of French settlers leave Algiers every month, weary of the endless war and clouded future. Yet new ones arrive from France, Tunisia, Morocco and pay ever higher prices for apartments, servants, food.

On the outskirts of the city, thousands of weary Moslems huddle in shantytowns where hunger and disease are rampant. They fled the war-battered countryside for the comparative calm of Algiers.

Police 'Drive' On Beer

VANCOUVER (CP)—City police have found a way of mixing beer and automobiles to produce better drivers.

They will use beer mashes to simulate slush or ice on a test track that is used in a driver-testing program aimed at making policemen practice the driving habits they preach to the public.

Staff Sergeant Jim Lavery, supervisor of the 130-vehicle police fleet, advocates pursuit training and testing to reduce the rate of vehicle damage and driver injuries.

Beer mashes for skids is available from a local brewery and has already been used to test anti-sway bars installed on police crash cars.

Loose Moose Nose Count By 'Copter

SIoux LOOKOUT, Ont. (UPI)—Ever heard of moose punchers? They're now landing helicopters right on the back of the animals in order to tag them as part of a conservation count.

The helicopter acts as a saddle, with pontoons straddling the moose. With the animal anchored by the helicopter, a ranger climbs on to a pontoon to tag the animal's ear.

The new scheme, which will replace dart guns and tranquilizers, is expected to speed the study of moose travel.

Troubled Plane Safe With 79

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI)—A huge double-decked British Overseas Airways Corp. Stratocruiser carrying 79 persons was forced to turn back from a flight to Boston yesterday when it developed mechanical trouble.

Pilot Don Bellingham brought the ship in for a perfect landing four hours after he radioed his first report that one engine had developed trouble and the cowlings went adrift.

Fall Fair Entries Earliest in History

Entries are pouring for the Saanich Fall Fair which this year will be held Sept. 5 to 7, at North and South Saanich Agricultural Park.

An official said it was the first time in the 91-year history of the exhibition that entries had been received at this early date.

At stake are nearly 70 trophies and thousands of dollars in prize money.

Defence Minister George Pearkes will officially open the exhibition.

The North and South Saanich Agricultural Society fall exhibition is described as the best of its kind west of the Great Lakes.

The highest number of awards, 23, will be in the cattle classes with 18 in the competitive saddle horse classes. The wide variety of exhibits will include eggs, grain, amateur photography, field roots and flowers.

Animal exhibits include goats, sheep, rabbits, swine and poultry.

Other attractions will be Highland dancing, rides and a large show of agricultural machinery.

General entry lists in most events close Aug. 31.

Reds Resent 'Dictator' Stalin Label

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A number of Russians are disturbed at Encyclopedia Britannica descriptions of Hitler and Stalin as dictators, guides at the book display in the American exhibition report.

The guides said the puzzled Russians would read the two sections concerning the men and then heatedly remark: "Hitler is described here as a dictator, Stalin too is described as a dictator, why?"

The Americans reply: "It is a standard work of reference, a book of facts about the world." Many Russians reply: "Why doesn't it say Hitler was a bad dictator and Stalin a good dictator?"

Happy Girl Unaware Of Whytehaven Fuss

MARCIA
happy with 'Mom'

Mom Clings to Her 'Family' In face of Crowding Charge

(Special to the Colonist)

BOWMANVILLE, Ont.—Marcia, who is 8, doesn't know what the fight here is all about.

She doesn't know there is a battle going on over her future and the future of 112 other children at Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte's haven for homeless youngsters.

Alarmed over an outbreak of infectious hepatitis, Welfare Minister Cecil has vowed he will move most of the children from Mom Whyte's care because, he says, her home is overcrowded.

STANDS FIRM

And Mom Whyte has vowed just as strongly that Marcia—who loves it at the Whytehaven home—and her companions, will not be taken away.

Mom Whyte admits her haven does not meet all the requirements it must be registered under the Charitable Institutions Act.

The act says no bed shall overlap a window or radiator.

SOME OVERLAP

The act requires a toilet for every five inmates and a bath or shower for every 10.

Whytehaven has 10 toilets and seven baths for 113 children. But, Mom Whyte points out, every child has a bath every night.

SAFETY CHECKS

The act demands an examination of the fire safety equipment once a month, the alarm equipment every two weeks and the heating system each six months.

There is no mechanical or electrical alarm at Whytehaven and the only fire fighting equipment, fire extinguishers, have not been receiving regular checks, Mrs. Whyte said. She said she didn't know they should receive these checks. The heating is checked and cleaned regularly.

NOT AWARE

Marcia isn't aware that Mom Whyte doesn't have enough money to provide all

Ex-Engineer To 'Grow Old Gracefully'

Engineer Ernest Harold Davy plans to "grow old gracefully" when he retires today after 40 years service with the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway.

Born in Victoria 65 years ago, Mr. Davy started work with the E & N in 1909 as a wiper, was promoted to fireman in 1910, and became an engineer in 1914. For the past two years he has been engineer on the Dayliner.

He and his wife live at 2568 Margate. His plans for the future include equal amounts of fishing, golfing, gardening and loafing.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Want to know how it feels to be 80? Read the little book "So Be It" by the late French Nobel Prize winner Andre Gide (Knopf).

Actually, Gide was 81 when he wrote that book. A year earlier, when he was 80, he decided to stop writing altogether and even abandoned his diary habit, which he'd kept up faithfully for some 60 years. However, after half a year or so, he noticed he suffered from lack of appetite—not only for food but for life. He felt he was slowly going to pieces inside, losing interest in everything around him. So, follow-

Whatever Came to Mind

Gide was famous for his utter truthfulness, for always putting down exactly what he saw and felt. (In the early 30s he enraged the Communists by telling the world just what Soviet Russia was like.) So, writing a new book at 81, he decided to embark on a brand-new experiment. He would set down whatever came to his mind, without editing, even without rereading what he had written. This way, he would preserve for mankind the re-

A Few Platitudes

At one point, after a particularly pointless anecdote (which he's told before anyway) Gide says to the reader, "What I am telling you is not very interesting. I know that, yet I am writing it anyway, just as I should tell it to you if you were sitting here beside me, with each of us smoking a cigarette. . . . Of course I'm bound to produce a few platitudes."

Why read a book like that? Because Gide was a great genius, and even in the winter of his life his mind gave off sparks. Listen to the old man:

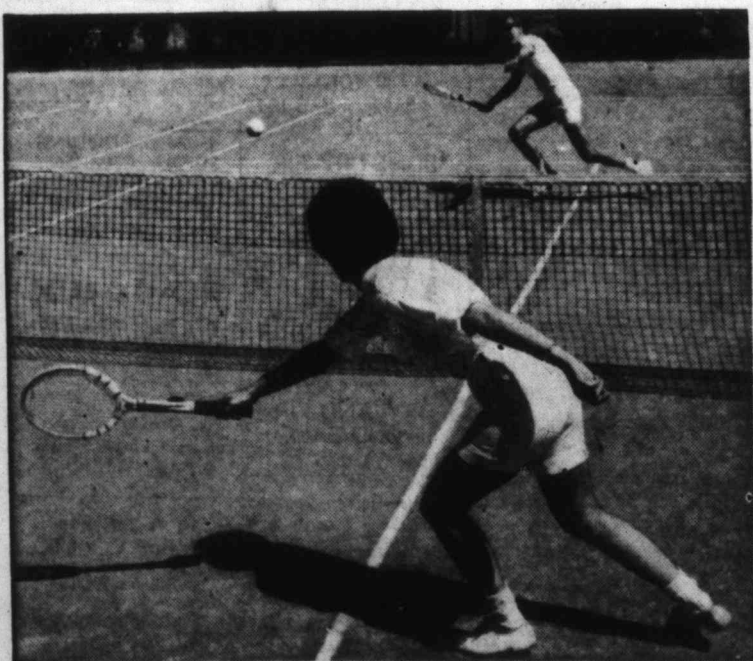

"If I had my life to begin over again, I should give more time to adventure. I find it hard to comfort myself for having been so cautious."

"I advise the young to tell themselves constantly that most often it is up to them alone."

"This is another piece of advice I give to the young: Know how to prefer what costs you the most effort."

Beleagued Mom Gets Some Help

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte says two of the problems that have hindered her Whytehaven mission have been solved temporarily.

Five friends from Winnipeg arrived to ease the staff shortage, and the Ontario welfare department has agreed to pay laundry expenses.

Mrs. Whyte, who refuses to reduce the number of children, says: "It would be breaking my covenant with God."

FRESHWATER AREAS

Alberta and Saskatchewan are the only Canadian province that do not have shores on salt water.

RCAF in Cast Of New Film

EDMONTON (UPI) — The Royal Canadian Air Force station at Namao, Alta., has received the green light from Ottawa authorizing it to use personnel and planes in a private Canadian movie production, "No Second Chance."

Hollywood actors and crewmen are expected to fly here to start work at Jasper on Monday. Most of the supporting roles and many of the technical jobs are being held by Canadians.

Scarred Man Plots

Years of Terror Haunt Woman After 'Branding'

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Four years ago a man slipped into a pretty housewife's kitchen and grabbed her as she stood ironing.

Mrs. Patricia Faye Smith smashed her iron against his face. The man fled, screaming, his face branded.

Two weeks later she received a crudely written note. "I'll get you," it said. For Mrs. Smith it was the beginning of four years of torment.

FLED HOME

Once the man appeared again at her home and tried to rape her—but fled when her children came home. Countless times her phone has rung. A man's voice would say: "I'll get you."

Three times the Smiths moved—from one Los Angeles suburb to another. They were beginning to feel secure in their home in Canoga Park.

RIPPED BLOUSE

She said he forced her into the bathroom of the home, ripped off her blouse and pulled a penknife. She said he told her:

"Now you are going to know what it feels like to be ugly."

She said he slashed her on the ankle twice, then slashed at her shoulders, arms and thighs.

locked doors of the home. Mrs. Smith said the man smashed her face with his clenched fist and warned:

"I'll be back to finish the job."

Then he fled. Police put out an all-point bulletin for the scarred man, whose identity isn't known.

Alberta Oil 'Dividends' Tax-Free, Says Board

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legal officers are considering whether to appeal a ruling that income tax should not have been levied on the Alberta government's oil and gas royalty dividend payments of 1957 and 1958.

"We are trying to come to a decision as quickly as possible," a revenue department official said.

NOT DIVIDENDS

A judgment by the income tax appeal board, signed by board member R. S. W. Fordham, said the payments were not, in fact, dividends. They were "more in the nature of a gift or windfall, albeit a small one, that was as surprising as it was unexpected."

His decision was made on an appeal by Mrs. Katherine Irene German, wife of a Calgary lawyer, against the government's claim for $6.60 in income tax against her $30 payment received in 1957.

ALREADY PAID

An unknown number of Albertans have already paid income tax on the payments. The revenue department official said that if Mr. Fordham's judgment stands, these persons can get back the tax paid, but will have to apply in writing within four years from the end of the year in which the money was received.

The Alberta "dividend" was a distribution of one-third of the provincial government's

The payments were discontinued after 1958.

In his judgment, Mr. Fordham said the revenue department in seeking to levy income tax relied heavily on the fact that the Alberta legislation called the payments as "dividend". The federal Income Tax Act stipulates that dividends are taxable income.

"Nevertheless," Mr. Fordham wrote, "terming a certain sum a 'dividend' does not make it such."

Mr. B.C. Motorist Discovers Why...

from

EXPERT: Chevron Supreme keeps the combustion chamber clean because it burns clean.

MR. B.C. And does it increase mileage?

EXPERT: Yes! Deposits in the combustion chamber cause gasoline to burn unevenly and waste power. Chevron Supreme leaves no deposits. All gasoline is burned, none wasted.

MR. B.C. How can I prove it?

EXPERT: The simplest way is to conduct the "Supreme" mileage test for yourself.

Pick up a copy of Standard's "Gasoline Mileage Record" from any Standard Station or Chevron Dealer when you fill your tank with Chevron Supreme. And, incidentally, if you drive a car that runs on regular grade gasoline, you can drive a bargain by using Chevron "regular".

Year's Hottest Day
And More on Way

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year. And, the weather office last night predicted continuation of warm and sunny weather.

An 85-degree temperature was recorded at the meteorological office at Gonzales hill, and thermometers read up to 10 degrees warmer in some other areas of the city.

MEETING FAILS, FUTURE DARK
FISHERMEN STRIKE GOES ONSinclair
Blasts
Stand

VANCOUVER (CP)—A meeting between striking fishermen and the British Columbia Fisheries Association broke up late Thursday with an accusation that the Fishermen's Union was indulging in "cheap, phoney propaganda."

The accusation came from James Sinclair, former Liberal fisheries minister and now president of the fisheries association.

Two fishboats are scheduled to leave Fisherman's Wharf today to catch mink feed for Vancouver Island breeders. Central strike committee of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union issued a permit for the trip by other trawlers Good Hope II and Grassholm.

He said the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) presented its original demands with only "trivial changes" after calling a special meeting. The union said earlier its central strike and policy committee asked for the meeting to present revised demands.

9,000 PERSONS

There was no immediate prospect of further meetings. The strike in B.C.'s $90,000,000-a-year fishing industry involves fishermen, tendermen and cannery workers—9,000 men and women in all.

Mr. Sinclair said the union was still demanding at Thursday's meeting a 14-per-cent increase in the price for sockeye salmon and up to 220 per cent for white spring salmon. It would be "economic suicide" to grant such increases, he said.

The sockeye run is expected to pass its peak within a few weeks.

PLAN OPPOSED

Meanwhile, a union plan to increase its strike fund was meeting opposition. Union fishermen have been selling freshly caught salmon at bargain prices to housewives from special stands they have set up in the Vancouver area.

Bill Irwin, owner of a West Vancouver fish market, said the owners of about 20 retail fish stores in Greater Vancouver have respected picket lines.

But the fishermen have been selling fish on the "backdoors" of regular fish markets, he said, and "we consider that unethical practice."

Small fish stores may be forced to close soon if the bargain fish sales continue, Mr. Irwin said.

NEW YORK (CP)—The luxury liner Queen Elizabeth, swiftly repaired after a collision Wednesday, resumed her voyage to Europe yesterday.

Union to Appeal
Contempt Verdict

VANCOUVER (CP)—For the first time in British Columbia labor history a union local Thursday was found guilty of contempt of court.

The striking Local 97 of the International Association of Bridge Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CLC) was fined $10,000 in B.C. Supreme Court.

At the same time, Fernand Leopold Whitmore, local president, business agent Norman Edlison and financial secretary Tom McGrath each were fined $3,000 or one year's imprisonment in default.

Defence counsel Tom Berger immediately filed notice of appeal against Mr. Justice A. M. Manson's decision and said he will request a special session of the B.C. Court of Appeal. Mr. Berger's main grounds

Thirty-five years a resident of the city's Mountain View Home for aged men, Alfred "Paddy" Morris is hard of hearing but sharp of mind, and emphatic of tongue when he says he wants to stay "right here!" He is one of 19 men still at the home.

Shocked Mayor
Demands Action
On Men's Home

By R. O. MARRION

Mayor Percy Scurrell and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, shocked by what they found in an investigation of transfer of aged men from the city's Mountain View Home, called yesterday for a quick decision on the home's future.

In a privately operated boarding home they found four of the men in one room, "the beds practically touching," Ald. Edgelow said; three of the men sitting on their beds and the fourth lying in bed unable to speak, having suffered two strokes, since he moved into the home.

"I was shaken, to be honest, to see the poor old chap lying there, with the three others unable to avoid seeing him in that condition," said Ald. Edgelow. As a result, arrangements were made to have the man moved to a private hospital, and Mayor Scurrell called on city council's welfare committee to report as soon as possible to council its views on the best course of action.

"It's important that a decision should be reached and this matter not allowed to drag along," Mayor Scurrell said.

RESCIND DECISION

At its last meeting, council appeared prepared to rescind a spring decision to close Mountain View at the end of September and sell the property, setting aside the proceeds toward construction of new accommodation for the aged.

But because the welfare committee was not at full strength, council postponed a decision and referred the matter back to the committee for study and report. Chairman, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, assured fellow aldermen that no more residents of the home would be transferred to private boarding homes pending a decision.

The private home the mayor and Ald. Edgelow visited yesterday was "absolutely clean," the alderman said, "and I don't doubt that the woman operating it is doing all she can, but she's not a nurse and doesn't profess to be."

SICK BAY

The men were moved, he said, from a home with a sick bay provided a few years ago at a cost between $30,000 and $40,000, where they could go when they became ill.

At Mountain View, he said, they had private rooms, entertainment, radio, television, magazines, nursing when needed, and home comforts. In the private boarding home they had none of these things — "It looks as if they were sent there to die."

Jumbo Triumphant in Alpine Defeat

SUSA, Italy (AP)—Jumbo forgot her troubles Wednesday night in an Italian welcome fit for a Roman emperor.

The 11-year-old elephant from the Turin zoo crossed the border from France after failing to retrace the route of Hannibal's elephants across the Alps 2,000 years ago.

She was weary but she perked up when sympathetic Italians treated her as a returning heroine. After all, it wasn't Jumbo's fault that the 9,250-foot Clapier Pass, where British historian John Hoyte contends Hannibal crossed into Italy, was blocked by a landslide and she had to return to Italy on a modern highway through a lower pass instead. No less than 2,000 persons —including the British consul from Turin—walked behind the elephant. Thousands of others, including Roman Catholic nuns, cheered from the sidewalks as Jumbo walked under arches of Italian, French and British flags.

Trains Hit
Head-On

GAINFORD, Alta. (CP)—The CNR's crack supercontinental passenger trains collided head-on at slow speed here Thursday. Fifteen passengers were injured, none seriously, although 10 were kept in hospital.

The collision of the two trains, No. 1 and 2, came at a siding a quarter-mile east of this hamlet 58 miles west of Edmonton.

BUNNING LATE

Both trains were running late but it was clear that speed was not a factor in the collision. One train, eastbound No. 2, was standing on the main line awaiting the passage of westbound No. 1.

No. 1 approached the "meet"—railway terminology for a passage of two trains—at about four miles an hour. It was to have taken a siding to permit No. 2, which had the right of way, to go through.

Instead, the locomotives hit head-on. The CNR made no statement as to the probable cause of the crash. Unofficially, a spokesman in Edmonton said: "It appears to be a case of human failure."

To some of the passengers on No. 2, more severely damaged of the two trains, the crash came, they said, as a quiet "oomph." To others, it was a "crashing shock."

Trees Halt Train,
100 Hurt

MEMONONIE, Wis. (UPI)

Seven cars of a speeding streamliner passenger train lurched off the tracks at the edge of a 100-foot cliff yesterday and at least 100 persons were injured.

Three of the cars crashed halfway down the cliff. They would have gone all the way to the concrete surface of a highway at the base of the embankment if they hadn't been stopped by a clump of trees.

Many of the shaken, terrified travellers aboard the Minneapolis to Chicago streamliner were in a state of shock and had to be carried from the crash-tilted cars.

Reds Cheer,
Nixon Happy

SVERDLOVSK, Soviet Union (AP)—U.S. Vice-President Richard Nixon toured this Soviet industrial centre Thursday to the cheers of thousands of Russians.

He plugged for more U.S.-Soviet friendship visits such as his.

Nixon told workers at the bottom of a copper mine talks between leaders could help to ease tensions. He brushed with only one heckler.

Summing up his first eight days in the Soviet Union, Nixon said his trip so far had been very successful.

"He thinks it highly significant that after all the criticism of the United States in the Soviet press, the people are still friendly," Nixon's spokesman told reporters.

"I do not pretend that personal contact would solve the basic problems of the world," he told a group of copper officials. "... this trip of mine will be followed by others, including contacts between other leaders."

Herbert Klein, Nixon's press spokesman, said he believed Nixon was referring to a summit conference. Others in Nixon's party thought Nixon was touching on the possibility of a U.S. visit by Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

About 3,000 Russians were waiting when Nixon and his party arrived at a steel tube rolling mill.

Nixon then drove through the timbered countryside of this Ural Mountain region to a big copper mine at Degtyarsk, 30 miles west of Sverdlovsk.

Last Leg of Tour Begins
With Nova Scotia Visit

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip Thursday spent about as varied a day as any on their Canadian tour in this hospitable island province of red clay and fine beaches.

Both seemed able to keep cool and relaxed despite a scorching sun that put temperatures in the mid-80s. They leave today for New Glasgow, N.S., on the last leg of the 45-

day tour that ends Saturday night in Halifax.

It was a busy day after the royal visitors arrived on the royal barge to be greeted by a 21-gun salute. The royal yacht Britannia, on which they made a leisurely overnight trip from Point de Chene, N.B., anchored two miles out at the harbor entrance.

Then began a round of activities so hectic the Queen didn't get a chance to change her dress until the garden party in the late afternoon.

Hoot Mon!

I am inclined to take exception to certain statements in the article "Thumbs named to honor Barrie" by Ginie Beardsley in Sunday's Islander.

It is too bad she does not get her facts straight before she starts writing her articles.

In the first paragraph she states "it's farther from the ugliness and poverty of a Scottish mill town of the '90's ... etc., etc."

She does not even know the spelling of the name of the town she has insulted. First of all I am a Scot. born and bred in KIRRIEMUIR, also my father, grandfather and great-grandfather before me and never before, to my knowledge, has anyone had the audacity to call one of the most picturesque towns anywhere (and I have been almost all over the world, including Canada) ugly and certainly never has it known poverty.

It has two small jute mills and during the time of the depression, when large mills and factories were closed or on short time, the Gairie Mill and Wilkie's were able to continue, because they could handle small orders that the bigger mills would not start their machinery for.

If Gordon Head ever begins to look half as beautiful as Kirriemuir, in Angus, Scotland, the tourist board will not require to do any further advertising, so please tell your "author" to read up on Kirriemuir, which is four miles from Glamis, the birthplace of Princess Margaret and the home of our Queen Mother.

Paid 13 Cents an Hour

I am submitting this observation so that anyone who is considering berry picking in the Saanich farm district will be informed as to how much money they can expect to make or rather how little.

My daughter, who is 16 and unable to find summer employment, applied for loganberry picking at the National Farm Labor Service and was told to report to a farm the following Monday morning. She reported as directed and after working all day long in the hot sun, was paid the grand sum of $1.80 for picking 60 pounds of loganberries at the prevailing rate of $0.03 per pound.

Subtract 50 cents bus fare from this and you are left with $1.30. Take a further $2.26 bus fare for going down town to register and you are left with $1.04. Divide this by eight hours and you have $13 per hour, which is of course a ridiculous wage to expect anyone to be fool enough to come back again for.

This therefore is the main reason that berries are rotting on the vines of Saanich.

Labor Strife

It seems that by all appearances we are in for a long strike with no immediate solution.

All this strife we are facing today, after all it is man-made, and accordingly if there is a solution, it would be man-made. It was announced that the members of the opposition had asked the government for an immediate session of the legislature and as we all know, the government declined. So naturally, people will immediately blame the government for not interfering.

The B.C. Federation of Labor is convening in Vancouver Aug. 1, in an endeavor to find a solution to all this strife. Most of you have heard a great deal about Bill 43. I don't know too much about it, but may I ask a question? If we did not have Bill 43, would we have all these strikes that are crippling B.C.?

May I offer a humble suggestion? Let us for a moment put aside power and politics and use common sense. There are some smart men among the politicians, union leaders and management. As we all know, there is talk of a summit conference between East and West. Why not something similar between labor, management and the government, or has it been tried?

Out of such a conference would come, let us say, a Bill of Rights which would be agreeable to all sides. Does that sound like a good idea?

CLYDE TEASDALE.

Bogus Bills Made in East

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP said today that counterfeit $10 bills that have turned up recently on the West Coast were printed in Montreal last year.

Officers said hundreds of the bogus bills are still in circulation despite the seizure of 250 of them here and the arrest of three men. Police estimate they were bought from the Montreal manufacturer for about $3 each.

The phony bills have turned up frequently at beer parlors and cafes here.

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nudist movement is growing steadily in the United States and Canada in spite of the competition of the Bikini bathing suit and skimpy street wear.

Three sunbathing associations comprising 125 camps and

clubs claim 10,000 members in North America—up from a low of less than 5,000 10 years ago. British Columbia seems to have the most nudists in Canada, but they're present and practising in all the 10 provinces.

There probably are more folks who spend their summer weekends and vacations naked in the United States today than at any time since the first nudist association was created a century ago by physical culture enthusiast Edmund Burke and two Protestant ministers, Ilsey Boone and Henry Huntington.

The growth of nudism scandalizes most church folk and gets a fishy eye from the medical profession. Most doctors, while agreeing that sunshine is good for you, contend civilized man just has lived indoors and worn clothes too many centuries now to be able safely to start running around naked again.

Nudists insist that's bunk. "The ancient Greeks went nude a lot of the time and from all accounts they had fine physiques—so did the early Romans and the Japanese even today have no prejudice against nudity," nudists claim. Except for being fenced in and the taboo against drinking, life in a nudist camp is about like being in any other vacation camp.

200 Waiting for Beds In Hospital at Nanaimo

NANAIMO—The Nanaimo General Hospital is operating at full capacity, a hospital authority said here. But no beds are in the halls or bathrooms at present. Well over 200 people are now waiting for accommodation at the hospital for operations that will have to be put off until there are beds available.

A hospital official said there are no cases like this here. Seriously ill patients are given top priority and are put at the head of the list. Nanaimo doctors can perform about 150 operations a month. The waiting list stands at 235.

This situation of overcrowding will not be alleviated until Nanaimo's new 200-bed hospital is completed in 1961 at a cost of $4,650,000. The Nanaimo General Hospital was built 30 years ago and with the growing populations in this area, it cannot handle enough patients.

Duncan Plans New Crossing

DUNCAN—City council has instructed its engineer to assist the Chamber of Commerce in selecting a traffic crossing over the E. and N. Railway tracks in town.

Chamber and council have agreed the two present crossings become "too congested" during busy traffic hours. If approved by the railway and the board of transport the crossing will probably connect Kenneth and Coronation or Queens and Ingram.

Making Room for Progress

Leading a crew demolishing the 30-year-old Sikh Temple at Paldi, five miles west of Duncan, is Hardial Singh, president of the Kahsra Diwan Society. Work will start Monday on a new $20,000 temple that will be three or four times as large. (Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

At Paldi

Sikhs Start New Temple

PALDI—They wanted more room for worship, a couple of bedrooms, some showers and school room space for teaching English lessons—but the temple was too small.

So members of the Sikh community here are tearing down their 30-year-old church building and on the site will build one three or four times larger.

Most of the turbaned workers who started demolishing the two-storey wooden temple, the only one in the Cowichan Valley, are IWA members on strike.

Money to buy the materials was donated by their employer, Mayo Lumber Co. Ltd., one of B.C.'s biggest lumber and sawmill companies.

The late Mayo Singh, colorful millionaire lumberman who built his huge company, established this little community as his registered office and gave the money for the old temple.

The old building, five miles west of Duncan, could accommodate 100 persons. The new 40-by-60-foot, two-storey temple will hold from 400 to 500 worshippers.

Work will start Monday on the new building.

"It will be opened with a big party, three or four days long, when it's completed in three or four months," said Hardial Singh, president of the Kahsra Diwan Society, owners of the temple.

In the basement will be a classroom for teaching pre-school children during the day and English to their mothers at night.

There will also be two bedrooms for guests, a secretary's office and shower room.

Please Save Water Plea to Parksville

PARKSVILLE—Alarm over the heavy consumption of water in Parksville has caused members of the village council to completely change former sprinkling regulations and to call upon all residents of the village to conserve water as much as possible.

A recent order made by the council, restricting sprinkling to mornings only, was found to impose a very heavy load on the pumping system and caused pressure to be dangerously low during those hours.

At an emergency meeting, the council decided to allow sprinkling from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., but a plea is being made to gardeners to use only as much water as necessary and to turn off sprinklers as soon as the water pressure shows a decrease.

Residents of the area west of the Alberni Highway are allowed to water gardens Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and east of the highway on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. There is to be no sprinkling on Sundays and at any time that the fire sirens sound.

Port Alberni Building To Be Finished Aug. 30

PORT ALBERNI—Aug. 30 has been set as completion date for Port Alberni's $500,000 federal building and post office. More than 90 per cent of construction has been completed on the concrete and masonry structure.

When completed, building will house the post office, National Employment Service, Indian affairs, customs and immigration, and departments of fisheries and public works.

Unique features of the structure are complete absence of lumber in a town whose basic industry depends on wood; and a specially constructed observation gallery running overhead through the post office. Here inspectors may look through one-way glass peepholes over every foot of floor space as staff members work.

The post office also will feature a drive-in mail chute leading directly into the main working area, and one large extra room to handle emergency mail at Christmas. No date has been set for occupancy or official opening.

Port Angeles

Ferry
Ahead
Of Plan

Victoria may get its long-awaited year-round ferry link with Port Angeles as early as Oct. 1 this year if there are no delays in completion of the $3,000,000 car ferry Mv Coho.

R. J. Acheson, president of Black Ball Transportation Inc., Seattle, said last night that "barring unforeseen circumstances" the 341-foot car ferry will be completed four to six weeks ahead of schedule.

STICKING TO DATE

"The shipyard is sticking to its Nov. 14 contract date," he said. "But I would say that we are six weeks ahead of schedule now."

The new ferry, capable of carrying 1,000 passengers and 125 vehicles, will make one round trip daily during the winter months. Service will be stepped up as required.

MONTH EARLIER

Mr. Acheson said "barring unforeseen circumstances we'll have her in operation not later than Nov. 1," and possibly a full month earlier.

Mayor Percy Scourrah said the announcement that year-round service to Port Angeles would start this fall was "good news." But he added that it doesn't solve the big problem of maintaining ferry service between Victoria and Vancouver.

NO COMMENT

Tourist officials declined to comment at present on probability that Washington State Ferries would be asked to keep the Mv. Kalakala in service after Sept. 28.

C. E. Blaney, Victoria agent for WSP, said to his knowledge no request has been made to WSP for continuation of the service beyond the summer schedule.

VLA Lots Available
To Nanaimo Veterans

NANAIMO—Regional supervisor of the Veterans Land Act, G. L. Chatterton has announced that lots in a VLA subdivision are now available to veterans.

The new subdivision is located off Departure Bay Road, north of Nanaimo city limits.

Mr. Chatterton said there are 31 plots of about 1.75 acres for small holdings and 12 lots.

He said plans for the new subdivision were made by his department because of the demand for VLA lots last year.

The lots will have water supplied by the water district of North Wellington.

School Backs
Nanaimo Pool

NANAIMO—Dominion-Provincial vocational training school principal Jack Macready has assured the Nanaimo Kinsmen Club the support of the vocational school in their swimming pool project.

Mr. Macready told the Kinsmen Club that the students would be put to work in the excavation for the new, enclosed pool. Permission has been granted for the building to be erected on city-owned Bowen Park and the Nanaimo Kinsmen Club members are endeavoring to begin the initial phases as soon as possible.

Mr. Macready's decision to assist in the program means that several thousand dollars will likely be "clipped" from the estimated cost.

The pool will be built to Olympic standards and every community organization will be asked to run at least one event in the next year and donate the funds to the pool project.

PORT ALBERNI—Every effort is being made to make a time of idleness less onerous to families of striking IWA members in the Alberni Valley with the entertainment committee of Local 1-85 planning a diversified recreation program.

Second outdoor dance since the strike started more than three weeks ago, was held Wednesday night on the parking lot of Super Valu stores in Alberni.

Between 150 and 200 strikers and their partners joined in dancing and another 200 sat in their cars to watch the fun. A similar affair was held a week ago on Woodward's parking lot in Port Alberni.

Planned for August 8 is a square dance show by members of local clubs and an evening of square dancing for everyone interested.

Appreciation

This also is scheduled for the Super Valu parking lot in Alberni, and officials expressed appreciation to Jack Webber, manager, for donation of the parking lot, use of lights and a cash donation of $10.

Committee plans a band concert for Sunday evening at Smith's Landing on Sprout Lake and still in the planning stage is a joint picnic with Duncan and Courtenay locals on the east side of the island.

No charge is made for any of these events but a silver collection is taken. Local residents and businessmen have been most co-operative in supporting these activities, officials said. Chairman of the entertainment committee in charge is William Anderson.

Striking woodworkers in the valley have taken over the chore of looking after grounds at Alberni Valley Memorial Homes, a newly landscaped senior citizens' residence. They have also offered their services to the city of Alberni for any clean up jobs that need doing outside of what regular city staff can handle.

$240 Collected

DUNCAN—Twenty-five taggers collected $240 for the Old Age Pensioners' Association on Saturday.

Money will be used to build a non-profit boarding home for elderly citizens.

Drink Banned

DUNCAN—Magistrate A. C. Sutton put a 19-year-old city man on a year's probation in court yesterday and forbade him to drink during the period.

James Backlund, 19, of 11th St., had pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted theft of a car from Wally Stipe Motors Ltd., Tuesday, where he was arrested by police about 3:35 a.m.

"Your trouble is liquor," said the magistrate after ordering the young man to pay $16 damages to cars on the lot.

Transfer

Transfer of H. C. Ferguson, district school superintendent, from Alberni to West Vancouver has been announced by Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

Mr. Ferguson for many years was principal of the Campbell River Junior-Senior High School and was inspector in the Smithers area before moving to Alberni.

NANAIMO—Value of building permits issued here climbed from $176,000 in June to $281,705 last month, inspector Ben Boers reported yesterday.

Permits for 22 residences are among the $1,097,916 issued this year.

Police Promoted

Two city police constables—Peter Voth and James Ramsay—were yesterday promoted to first-class constables at a meeting of the city police commission.

Diet Uncertain

Flipper's Got Grief

When James Island's most famous resident, Flipper the seal, swam out of the blue Pacific into the arms of civilization two weeks ago she hadn't a problem in the world.

Today she has to contend with:

1. A threat to her daily diet of six pounds of fresh fish due to a fishing industry strike.

2. An offer to become an attraction with Barnum & Bailey.

3. Hordes of visitors who arrive at her front door in everything from modest dinghies to twin-engine cabin cruisers.

4. Frequent requests to perform before television cameras.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Askey, whose three sons, John, Randy and David befriended Flipper when she got stranded on the beach in front of their home, are helping the month-old seal pup with as many of the problems as she can.

They have advised her to turn down the circus offer, helped her to entertain her daily guest list, assisted her in preparing for the TV cameras—but the fish strike has them baffled.

"Flipper eats five to six pounds of fresh fish every day, and to supplement the bullheads and things the boys have been catching we have been getting fresh fish off from the packers," says attractive Mrs. Askey.

"But now with the strike on there isn't any offal and I don't know what we're going to do."

"If fishermen cruising past the north end of James Island have anything to spare in the fresh fish or fish-offal line all they have to do is give us a shout and I'll row out to pick it up."

Mrs. Askey is afraid she may have to ask an aquarium or zoo to look after Flipper if she can't get the fish.

"The Barnum & Bailey man telephoned and offered us $50 for Flipper but we didn't think she should be in a circus," she explained.

"We've never had so many visitors to James Island before. People from California, from Washington and Vancouver."

As Crew Reports

Search for a Victoria-built boat which failed to show up at Ketchikan, Alaska, for yesterday's start of a 723-mile outboard motorboat race to Seattle was called off last night after the missing boat and her two-man crew were reported safe at Comox.

The catamaran sea sled Rebel left Victoria Saturday Foul Bay, said last night that both men were safe in Comox and that they planned to return to Victoria by car.

The U.S. Coast Guard began a search when the catamaran failed to arrive at Alaska.

Skipper of the twin-engine craft, Carmen Pascoe, 1683 Foul Bay Road, and navigator Jack Blower, 1223 Sunnyside, wired Bill Walters of Victoria on Monday for a new set of electrical wiring but apparently were unable to effect repairs in time to reach Ketchikan in time for the race.

Carmen's sister, Mrs. Yolanda Hancock, also of 1683 stops at lunch and overnight.

Hardly Cricket
And Not Bowling

It certainly wasn't cricket and it probably didn't look much like bowling, either, when three juveniles—two 10 years old and one 11 years old—scattered bowling balls on the bowling green in Beacon Hill Park early Thursday morning.

Cordell Numbay, 1161 Camrose Crescent, reported to police about 1 a.m. that the bowling clubhouse had been broken into. Police found a number of balls had been taken from lockers and scattered on the green.

At 6:20 a.m. a constable found three young boys sleeping under a tarpaulin in Thunderbird Park. They admitted having entered the bowling clubhouse.

Sinclair Blasts Union Stand

FISHING STRIKE TALKS FAIL

Jumbo Triumphant in Alpine Defeat

SUSA, Italy (AP)—Jumbo forgot her troubles Wednesday night in an Italian welcome fit for a Roman emperor.

The 11-year-old elephant from the Turin zoo crossed the border from France after failing to retrace the route of Hannibal's elephants across the Alps 2,000 years ago. She was weary but she perked up when sympathetic Italians treated her as a returning heroine. After all, it wasn't Jumbo's fault that the 9,250-foot Clapier Pass, where British historian John Hoyte contends Hannibal crossed into Italy, was blocked by a landslide and she had to return to Italy on a modern highway through a lower pass instead. No less than 2,000 persons —including the British consul from Turin—walked behind the elephant. Thousands of others, including Roman Catholic nuns, cheered from the sidewalks as Jumbo walked under arches of Italian, French and British flags.

Future Is Dark

VANCOUVER (CP)—A meeting between striking fishermen and the British Columbia Fisheries Association broke up late Thursday with an accusation that the Fishermen's Union was indulging in "cheap, phoney propaganda."

The accusation came from James Sinclair, former Liberal fisheries minister and now president of the fisheries association.

He said the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (UFAW) presented its original demands with only "trivial changes" after calling a special meeting. The union said earlier its central strike and policy committee asked for the meeting to present revised demands.

9,000 PERSONS

There was no immediate prospect of further meetings. The strike in B.C.'s $90,000,000-a-year fishing industry involves fishermen, tendermen and cannery workers—9,000 men and women in all.

Mr. Sinclair said the union was still demanding a 14-per-cent increase in the price for sockeye salmon and up to 220 per cent for white spring salmon. It would be "economic suicide" to grant such increases, he said.

The sockeye run is expected to pass its peak within a few weeks.

PLAN OPPOSED

Meanwhile, a union plan to increase its strike fund was meeting opposition. Union fishermen have been selling freshly caught salmon at bargain prices to housewives from special stands they have set up in the Vancouver area.

Bill Irwin, owner of a West Vancouver fish market, said the owners of about 20 retail fish stores in Greater Vancouver have respected picket lines. But the fishermen have been selling fish on the "backdoors" of regular fish markets, he said, and "we consider that unethical practice."

Small fish stores may be forced to close soon if the bargain fish sales continue, Mr. Irwin said.

Repaired Liner Off to Europe

Union to Appeal Contempt Verdict

VANCOUVER (CP)—For the first time in British Columbia labor history a union local Thursday was found guilty of contempt of court.

The striking Local 97 of the International Association of Bridge Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (IABO) was fined $10,000 in B.C. Supreme Court.

At the same time, Fernand Leopold Whitmore, local president, business agent Norman Eddison and financial secretary Tom McGrath each were fined $3,000 or one year's imprisonment in default.

The contempt action revolved around striking union members' defiance of a court injunction ordering the ironworkers to instruct its members to return to work on the new $23,000,000 Second Narrows bridge.

Thirty-five years a resident of the city's Mountain View Home for aged men, Alfred "Paddy" Morris is hard of hearing but sharp of mind, and emphatic of tongue when he says he wants to stay "right here!" He is one of 19 men still at the home.

Shocked Mayor Demands Action On Men's Home

By R. O. MARRION

Mayor Percy Scurrah and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, shocked by what they found in an investigation of transfer of aged men from the city's Mountain View Home, called yesterday for a quick decision on the home's future.

In a privately operated boarding home they found four of the men in one room, "the beds practically touching," Ald. Edgelow said; three of the men sitting on their beds and the fourth lying in bed unable to speak, having suffered two strokes since he moved into the home.

"I was shaken, to be honest, to see the poor old chap lying there, with the three others unable to avoid seeing him in that condition," said Ald. Edgelow.

As a result, arrangements were made to have the man moved to a private hospital, and Mayor Scurrah called on city council's welfare committee to report as soon as possible to council its views on the best course of action.

"It's important that a decision should be reached and this matter not allowed to drag along," Mayor Scurrah said.

RESCIND DECISION

At its last meeting, council appeared prepared to rescind a spring decision to close Mountain View at the end of September and sell the property, setting aside the proceeds toward construction of new accommodation for the aged.

But because the welfare committee was not at full strength, council postponed a decision and referred the matter back to the committee for study and report. Chairman, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, assured fellow aldermen that no more residents of the home would be transferred to private boarding homes pending a decision.

The private home the mayor and Ald. Edgelow visited yesterday was "absolutely clean," the alderman said, "and I don't doubt that the woman operating it is doing all she can, but she's not a nurse and doesn't profess to be."

SICK BAY

The men were moved, he said, from a home with a sick bay provided a few years ago at a cost between $30,000 and $40,000, where they could go when they became ill.

At Mountain View, he said, they had private rooms, entertainment, radio, television, magazines, nursing when needed, and home comforts. In the private boarding home they had none of these things — "It looks as if they were sent there to die."

Trains Hit Head-On

GAINFORD, Alta. (CP)—The CNR's crack supercontinental passenger trains collided head-on at slow speed here Thursday. Fifteen passengers were injured, none seriously, although 10 were kept in hospital.

The collision of the two trains, No. 1 and 2, came at a siding a quarter-mile east of this hamlet 58 miles west of Edmonton.

RUNNING LATE

Both trains were running late but it was clear that speed was not a factor in the collision. One train, eastbound No. 2, was standing on the main line awaiting the passage of westbound No. 1.

No. 1 approached the "meet"—railway terminology for a passage of two trains—at about four miles an hour. It was to have taken a siding to permit No. 2, which had the right-of-way, to go through.

Instead, the locomotives hit head-on. The CNR made no statement as to the probable cause of the crash. Unofficially, a spokesman in Edmonton said: "It appears to be a case of human failure."

To some of the passengers on No. 2, more severely damaged of the two trains, the crash came, they said, as a quiet "oomph." To others, it was a "crashing shock."

Trees Halt Train, 100 Hurt

MENOMONIE, Wis. (UPI)

Seven cars of a speeding streamliner passenger train lurched off the tracks at the edge of a 100-foot cliff yesterday and at least 100 persons were injured.

Three of the cars crashed halfway down the cliff. They would have gone all the way to the concrete surface of a highway at the base of the embankment if they hadn't been stopped by a clump of trees.

Many of the shaken, terrified travellers aboard the Minneapolis to Chicago streamliner were in a state of shock and had to be carried from the crash-tilted cars.

Reds Cheer, Nixon Happy

SVERDLOVSK, Soviet Union (AP)—U.S. Vice-President Richard Nixon toured this Soviet industrial centre Thursday to the cheers of thousands of Russians.

He plugged for more U.S.-Soviet friendship visits such as his.

Nixon, told workers at the bottom of a copper mine talks between leaders could help to ease tensions. He brushed with only one heckler.

Summing up his first eight days in the Soviet Union, Nixon said his trip so far had been very successful.

"He thinks it highly significant that after all the criticism of the United States in the Soviet press, the people are still friendly," Nixon's spokesman told reporters.

"I do not pretend that personal contact would solve the basic problems of the world," Nixon told a group of copper officials. "This trip of mine will be followed by others, including contacts between our leaders."

Herbert Klein, Nixon's press spokesman, said he believed Nixon was referring to a summit conference. Others in Nixon's party thought Nixon was touching on the possibility of a U.S. visit by Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

About 3,000 Russians were waiting when Nixon and his party arrived at a steel tube rolling mill.

Last Leg of Tour Begins With Nova Scotia Visit

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip Thursday spent about as varied a day as any on their Canadian tour in this hospitable island province of red clay and fine beaches.

Both seemed able to keep cool and relaxed despite a scorching sun that put temperatures in the mid-80s. They leave today for New Glasgow, N.S., on the last leg of the 45-

day tour that ends Saturday night in Halifax.

It was a busy day after the royal visitors arrived on the royal barge to be greeted by a 21-gun salute. The royal yacht Britannia, on which they made a leisurely overnight trip from Point de Chene, N.B., anchored two miles out at the harbor entrance.

Then began a round of activities so hectic the Queen didn't get a chance to change her dress until the garden party in the late afternoon.

Then, she emerged in a full-skirted emerald green dress with large white collar, white puffed organza picture hat and a diamond brooch with a drop emerald pinned to her shoulder.
